Political Parties Prepare to Fight In Every Section

Republicans Plan Inroads in South, Democrats Seek Republican Votes in Middle West—East Is Marked as Battleground—Prohibition and Religious Issue Occupy Attention of Politicians.

(By Byron Price, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP).—After a season of anxious mobilization, the war-making departments of the two great political parties are preparing to go into action on a national front that has no exempted sectors, urban or rural, east or west or south.

If these preparations come to full fruition, it will be the first time in a generation that a presidential campaign has been carried into the byways of every quarter of the country.

From the beginning, the east has been marked as a battleground, for Democrats saw victory in a combination of east and south, with a few western states. Only within the past few days has there appeared definite indication of a serious widening of these programs.

Both Parties Plan Inroads.

Republican managers, giving ear to the protests of southern drys, announced an effort to make real inroads on the Democratic south; while the Democratic leaders, including Governor Smith himself, raised a farm relief banner before the eyes of the McNary-Haugen Republicans in the vast stretch of normally Republican states west of the Mississippi.

A real Republican drive in the south and a real Democratic drive in the Republican states of the west would mean battle in almost every state in the union.

Great Popular Interest Everywhere.

A birdseye view three months before the election shows great popular interest in every section of the country. Political news is given first place in most newspapers and political meetings are well attended. But it is in the south, where certain elements are struggling against the Democratic ticket without apparent Republican support thus far, that the campaign has reached its highest peak of bitterness.

Almost without exception the constituted leaders of the Southern Democracy have either indorsed Smith and Robinson or remained silent. On the other hand many leaders of the Protestant churches, and others, have followed the advice of the Asheville conference and pledged themselves to Hoover. There is widespread discussion of politics in southern pulpits, although some ranking officials of the southern churches have urged preachers to avoid political speaking.

Plead Against Religious Intolerance.

Two Southern senators, George of Georgia and Harrison of Mississippi, have taken the stump to plead against religious intolerance and for preservation of Democratic solidarity in the south. In some instances church and political leaders have indulged in open disputes.

In almost every section of the south, except for Tennessee and Kentucky, which have been occupied with local primary fights almost to the exclusion of national issues, Democratic voters are being asked to judge between two schools of advice.

Holding Democrats in Line.

Some party leaders in South Carolina, seeking to hold the voters in line for Smith, have invoked a party rule requiring those who vote in the primary to support the national ticket. Arkansas has a somewhat similar rule, and Democratic leaders have served notice that they will enforce it. An effort in the same direction is proposed in Florida.

Texas has furnished the nearest approach to a showdown between Smith and anti-Smith Democrats. In a recent primary every candidate for state office who had refused to support Smith failed of nomination, in most cases by great majorities. One Oklahoma Democratic leader, former Senator Owen, has gone over openly to the Hoover camp, while in North Carolina Senator Simmons has resigned from the national committee and has reciated Governor Smith "hostile to the fundamental principles of democracy."

Throughout most of the east the campaign still is quiescent, and in the west political activity has been apparent only in widely scattered sections. For the moment, at least, last Thursday's conference between Gov. Smith and George N. Peek, head of the farm committee of 22 that backed the McNary-Haugen bill, has given prominence to the farm relief issue. After the conference Peek announced he would support the Democratic ticket.

Campaign Not Technically Begun.

In the midst of all this activity, it will be news to many that technically the campaign has not yet begun. Officially the Republicans are to go into action a week from tonight, when party leaders gather at Hoover's California home to notify him formally of his nomination. Smith's notification at Albany will not take place until August 22.

Despite the noise about them, the presidential candidates themselves have, in the main, kept in the background and thus followed precedent. Since the conventions Smith has made but a half dozen statements on political issues, and Hoover even less. The past week has seen both of them on vacation in preparation for the hard weeks ahead. Smith golfing and swimming on the Long Island shore and Hoover fishing in the fastnesses of northern California. Neither has announced his campaign plans.

Party Managers Not Reticent.

The party managers have not been so reticent. Both parties have set up extensive headquarters in several cities. Both have let it be known that campaign contributions will be thankfully received, and that there will be no hesitancy in spending legitimately. Chairman Raskob says "tentatively" that $3,000,000 or so will do for the Democrats, and Chairman Work wants $4,000,000 for the Republicans. If any such amounts are raised it will be the first time in years that both parties have been well supplied with cash.

Many Notables to Attend State Fair

Senator Curtis of Kansas to Speak on Farm Bureau Day—Governor Smith and Other Democratic Leaders to Attend—Reception for Amelia Earhart.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The Eighty-eighth New York State Fair will, it appears, have more distinguished visitors and outstanding features than any exhibition in the long life of the institution.

Miss Amelia Earhart, only woman who has spanned the Atlantic by aeroplane, will be guest of honor on the opening day, Monday, August 27. Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican vice presidential nominee, will be the honor guest and principal speaker on Tuesday, Federation of Farm Bureau Day. On Wednesday, Grange Day, the giant navy dirigible will fly into the fair grounds with a distinguished party of navy officials.

On Thursday Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democratic Presidential nominee, will be the guest and with the governor will be a big following of Democratic national leaders. It looks like a big week for Syracuse.

Lady Lindy, whose flight to Europe made her one of America's best known "ambassadors of goodwill, is to be welcomed to Syracuse on the day that Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg signs anti-war treaties with most of the foreign powers of the world.

Syracuse will welcome her with an impressive patriotic spectacle in observance of the day, which it has been proposed to designate as Universal Peace day in commemoration of the step toward world peace which will be taken in the signing of the treaties. Miss Earhart will be asked to speak briefly on the subject of "Peace."

Miss Earhart will be accompanied to Syracuse by George Palmer Putnam, famous writer and explorer. They will arrive shortly before noon and will circle over the city before landing at a specially prepared field on the fair grounds.

The coming of the Los Angeles to hover above the fair grounds will provide an opportunity for thousands of persons who previously have not been privileged to view it, to do so at their leisure.

Grange day always has been one of the largest in point of attendance. Farmers from all sections of the state come to Syracuse on that day in response to the invitation of the state grange and its hundreds of smaller chapters, which arrange a program of special interest for them in addition to the exhibits and other attractions of the exposition.

Electrical Storm Hits Toronto

Girl Killed and Woman Injured By Lightning In Worst Storm of Year —Severe Crop Damage Reported.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 4 (AP).—A fifteen-year-old girl was killed and a woman injured by lightning last night in Toronto's worst electrical storm of the year. Power and telephone lines were damaged, and three persons were injured in accidents attributed to the storm.

Eleven buildings, including St. Michael's Cathedral and a hydro-electric substation were struck by lightning. Damage to the power station plunged the entire east end of the city into darkness and halted street car traffic in that section.

The rural districts reported severe crop damage, houses and trees struck by lightning, power houses damaged and roads inundated.

Dorothy Kennedy, 15, of Dixie, was killed by lightning while standing on a ladder in her father's barn. Mrs. Charles Good, who lives across the street, was struck while closing a window. The bolt burned her left arm, leaving it partly paralyzed and rendering her speechless. Her eyesight was also affected. She will recover, her doctor said, but her speech and sight will be impaired.

Two Arrests Here.

Louis Simon a local taxi driver, was arrested Friday charged with violation of the taxi ordinance in soliciting fares while standing more than five feet from his car at the Rhinebeck ferry. He will be given a hearing later. Albert Wattenberg of Paterson, N. J., arrested for speeding, furnished cash bail for his appearance in court next Tuesday.

Electric Service In Kingston Hard Hit by "Twister"

Street Lighting Circuits Out of Commission Until Nearly Midnight—House Lighting Not Affected for Over Two Minutes Except in Vicinity of Fallen Trees.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, which furnishes the house and street lighting service in Kingston, was hard hit by the storm although house lighting service to the city was not interrupted for over a two minute period, except the houses in the vicinity of fallen trees, which were without lights for several hours until repairs could be made.

The biggest damage was to the street lighting circuits, which was universal all over the city and was due to trees and limbs of trees falling on the wires. In many places the wires were snapped off.

The two sections of the city hardest hit were the Albany and Foxhall avenue sections and Franklin and Liberty streets section where house lights in the vicinity of the fallen trees were out of commission for several hours.

In other sections of the city house circuits were not out for over a two minute period.

Streets Dark Until Midnight.

The city streets were in darkness until shortly after midnight when the street lights started coming on. The downtown sections came on earlier than the uptown sections. By this afternoon all trouble will be cleared up, however, and both house and street circuits will be working as they were before the storm hit the city.

As soon as the storm broke over the city the electric company sent out its crews of repair men who worked all night clearing up the trouble as fast as possible and replacing the broken wires. This morning the repair crews also continued at work.

According to the Central Hudson the storm of Friday evening caused more scattered trouble than any storm that had broken over the city in years. In other years the service had been suspended for a longer duration, but the area affected was not so widely scattered as that of Friday.

Party Leaders to Talk With Smith

Will Invite to Albany Some Who Made a Fight for the Nomination —Will Get More Light on Farm Situation.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—In the seclusion of the executive mansion at Albany, Gov. Smith not only intends during the next fortnight to put into black and white his views regarding campaign issues, but to confer with various Democratic leaders, among them some who opposed him in the fight for the presidential nomination at Houston.

As the Democratic nominee, along with other New Yorkers, sweltered today with a variety of political conferences on his calendar, he looked forward to moving up the Hudson tomorrow to the state capital which, after all, is home.

Once he returns to the executive mansion—and his arrival there is booked for tomorrow night after he stops at a national guard camp near Peekskill for an inspection of the troops—he will face the necessity of rounding out his acceptance speech, which will be delivered two weeks from Wednesday night.

In addition, Smith has requested Senator Walsh of Montana to talk over the political situation with him, and is planning to discuss the outlook with others who made a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Smith himself has not disclosed to whom he will talk before launching into his campaign, but it is expected that an increasing number of party leaders, including some who made a fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, will be invited to Albany.

Although the Governor has not tipped his hand, he is expected to solicit the advice of such Democrats as George of Georgia, Hull of Tennessee, Woollen of Indiana, and others who received votes in the Houston convention for the presidential nomination. Already Reed of Missouri, who stood out to the last, has assured Smith that he will carry through one hundred per cent.

Smith has disclosed that he already has requested Senator Walsh, who is a Roman Catholic and a dry, to meet with him for a campaign chat. Walsh is willing, but a date for their conference has not been determined.

In addition to talking over the political situation generally with party leaders during the next week or two, Smith has it in mind to get more light on the farm situation, which he is expected to emphasize in his speech at the notification ceremony.

Despite the Democratic nominee's insistence that he is not for the equalization fee as contained in the McNary-Haugen Farm bill, George N. Peek, Illinois farm leader, who has enlisted in his cause, insists he is satisfied.

An Auto Collision.

Elmer Van Tassell of 27 Washington avenue reported to the police Friday that while driving through John street his car was struck by a car driven by George Kachizian of 311 Clifton avenue, who was pulling out from the curb. Van Tassel's car had a fender broken.

Hoover Finishes His Big Message

And Is Ready to Give His Full Attention to Matters of Party Organization and Strategy—Will Talk to Party Leaders.

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP).—With preparation of his acceptance address finally behind him, Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, was ready today to give his full attention to matters of party organization and strategy.

Early next week he will begin a series of conferences with party leaders concerning these questions. Among the leaders will be Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee, who will bring first hand reports on the progress of the building of a nationwide machine for the coming campaign on his arrival here for the notification ceremonies one week from today.

Hoover had no engagements for today, and planned to leave in mid-afternoon for Santa Rosa, to join his fellow Bohemian Club members in witnessing the club's annual play, "Nanda", which will be staged tonight in the Sylvian Theatre on the expansive club grounds near that city. This is an event for which club members prepare for months and proves one of the spectacles in this section of the country.

Admission is by invitation only, and the ratio usually runs one guest to three members.

Unusual Study Given to Message.

Completion of the acceptance address lifted quite a load from the shoulders of the nominee. He has given unusual thought and study to the first message he is to deliver to the voters of the country, and especially to those portions dealing with two subjects that admittedly are of the highest importance in the campaign at this time—farm relief and prohibition.

While some disquieting reports as to conditions in the corn belt have reached the nominee by word of mouth and in private and published reports, the situation apparently is giving Hoover little concern. He will be on the ground there himself from August 21 to 23, when he visits his birthplace at West Branch, Iowa, and expects to be able to assess the situation more accurately after his contact with the people there.

At this old home town the nominee will deliver the second speech of the campaign, and while he probably will not begin its preparation until after his acceptance address, the general belief now is that he will treat the farm relief question at considerably greater length than in his speech here next Saturday.

Recall Storm Of 58 Years Ago

Storm Similar to That of Friday Night Centered In Same Section as That Where This Year's Storm Worked Havoc.

The terrific wind, rain, hail and electric storm of Friday evening with the heavy rolling thunder reminded old timers of a storm of a similar nature in Kingston fifty-eight years ago.

It occurred on the evening of August 21, 1870, about 8:30 o'clock and the George F. Bailey one-ring circus was giving exhibitions here, its tent being pitched on what was then known as Van Deusen's Commons, a large vacant tract lying between Union avenue (now Broadway), Van Buren street, Van Deusen street, and terminating where Furnace street ends. Prospect street at that time not having been extended through to Greenkill avenue.

The storm came up suddenly, a strong gale blowing and the heavy downpour of rain was accompanied by very sharp lightning. The circus tent was well-filled and suddenly a bolt of lightning struck the top of the canvas, tearing a long rent in it. Pandemonium reigned and many men and women were shocked and fell off the seats. George F. Bailey, the circus owner, was ringmaster and Ben Macinley the clown, while a woman was on horseback doing her act in the ring. There was fully six inches of water in the ring and Bailey and Macinley shouted to the people to keep from getting excited.

The bolt of lightning that ripped the big hole in the canvas caromed to a small sized three along the edge of the lot about forty feet from where the Gregory furniture store now stands, and six negroes who had gone under the tree for shelter were killed. They hailed from Marlborough and Hurley. The bodies, around each being a dark ring caused by the lightning, were taken to the office of Dr. Walter A. Van Rensselar, who was then the coroner, in the frame building then on Main street, where Fowler & Decker have their offices.

S. G. KRAYEM TO INSTALL NEW FRONT IN HIS STORE

Work will be started Monday installing new store fronts in the store of S. G. Krayem at No. 35 East Strand. Plans for the improvement were prepared by Architect Gerard W. Betz. The masonry work will be done by Contractor Frank S. Campbell and the carpentry work by T. Kowal. When the work is completed it will be a decided addition to the business houses on the Strand. Business will be continued as usual at the store while the work is under way.

Brutal Murder in Hollywood Hills

Russell St. Clair Beltzel Stands Formally Charged With the Murder of Barbara Mauger—Dead More Than a Month.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP).—Details of a love drama which ended in a gruesome tragedy in the hills above Hollywood were being gathered from both sides of the continent today by police in an effort to solve the murder of Barbara Mauger, 19 year old Philadelphia girl.

Her former lover, Russell St. Clair Beltzel, once a man of affairs in Philadelphia, stands formally charged with the crime. Lately he had been employed by a service organization here.

The nude body of the girl was found in a remote spot yesterday. She had been dead more than a month. The body though badly torn by wild animals, indicated she was about to have become a mother. A platinum wedding ring on her finger was the means of identification.

The ring, a shield behind which the love affair between Beltzel and the girl had been concealed, was the clue that led police to his door.

The gruesome touch was added to the slaying when the county autopsy surgeon found that the bullet wound in the head of the young woman would not necessarily have been fatal had she been given immediate medical treatment.

The surgeon said it was possible that the bullet merely blinded and stunned her and that she might have lived as long as three days, finally dying slowly, and in agony.

Under vigorous questioning, Beltzel told the police he had separated from his wife and his two small sons when he met Miss Mauger whose name he first gave as Barbara Morrow—a waitress in a Philadelphia cafe. He became infatuated with her. He confessed that he stole $300 from the safe of the Philadelphia dry goods store of which he was credit manager and the pair came to Hollywood, where they lived together.

Was to Become a Mother.

Then Miss Mauger found she was to become a mother and quarrels followed, the girl asking that he obtain a divorce and marry her. On June 24, he said, while in his automobile in the hills above Hollywood, just a few hundred yards from the spot where the body was found, they had another quarrel and she leaped from the car and disappeared. That was the last time he had seen her, he declared. The day before he had borrowed a gun and gone to the same spot to practice shooting, he said.

Neighbors told the officers he returned from that June 24 ride and said his "wife" had gone and would not return. In storage the police found a complete layette of baby clothes.

The officers said they found Beltzel had sent a bundle of his wife's clothing to a fictitious address in Phoenix, Ariz., with a fictitious return address in Seattle, Wash., on the outside of the package.

A Different Story

Dispatches from Lancaster, Pa., where Beltzel's wife, Mrs. Jean Mellinger Beltzel, lives with their two children, told a different story from that of her husband of the events which took place in the east. She said the slain girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mauger of Philadelphia and that it was the affair between Beltzel and the girl which caused her to leave her husband.

Mrs. Bietzel said Mr. Mauger had asked her to divorce Beltzel in order that he might marry Miss Mauger, who was to become a mother.

Beltzel, according to the officers who questioned him, maintained an attitude of cool indifference. Standing at the spot where the body of the girl was found, he looked up at the detectives and grinned broadly as he answered some of their questions.

Police are looking for a chorus girl with whom Beltzel is said to have become infatuated. They state that he was seen with her in a cafe on June 24, the day Miss Mauger disappeared.

A woman whose name was not disclosed and who had attended a theatre with Miss Mauger told police the girl had pointed out a member of the chorus and remarked that her "husband," Beltzel, was in love with that girl.

"I don't believe I will be alive three weeks from now," Miss Mauger was quoted as having told her friend.

Positive Identification Lacking

Philadelphia, Aug. 4 (AP).—Although positive identification was lacking, police and other investigators here were of the opinion today that the body of a young woman found slain in the hills near Hollywood was that of Miss Barbara Mauger, 19 year old daughter of a railroad brakeman of this city.

The fact that Miss Mauger left here several months ago with Russell St. Clair Beltzel, who is under arrest in Los Angeles charged with murder, however, strengthened the belief that she was the victim. Beltzel is the son of Mrs. Catherine Beltzel of York, Pa., and is wanted here on charges of deserting his wife and embezzlement.

Beltzel was assistant credit manager of a Philadelphia department store and, according to the police records, fled in the summer of 1927 with Miss Mauger, at that time a cashier in the same store. At that time officials of the store said Beltzel was short $1,100 in his accounts and that he also owed an additional $1,000 for articles purchased for himself and Miss Mauger. The girl's accounts were found to be in order.

"Twister" Hits City, Doing Much Damage

Wind Storm of Short Duration Blows Down Numerous Trees, Carrying Power Transmission and Telephone Lines—Streets Blocked by Trees and Limbs—Homes Damaged by Rain, Driven Into Open Windows by Wind—Only One Person Injured.

Breaking with an abruptness that caught many people unprepared, one of the worst storms in years passed over Kingston shortly after 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, leaving behind it a tangled mass of litter. The storm centered in the upper section of the city and most of the damage was done above the West Shore railroad. Telephone men and employes of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation were kept busy all night repairing broken wires and effecting temporary hook-ups to give service. Street employes under the direction of Superintendent Mills were on the job clearing blocked streets and getting traffic moving.

For some two hours trolley service was at a standstill and in many instances the bus lines were compelled to operate over detour routes in order to get through.

Only One Person Injured.

William C. Klein, who resides at the corner of Hasbrouck avenue and East Chester street, was the only person injured during the storm. He is master mechanic of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad and was at work with an axe cutting away the limbs of a tree that held the trolley wire to the ground when the wire, suddenly released, sprang back into place, catching him under the jaw and hurling him about fifteen feet into the air to alight on his head and shoulders. He was taken to the City of Kingston Hospital.

Just before the trees fell on Broadway a trolley car in charge of Motorman John Dawe and Conductor James Howard was on the way up Broadway and had stopped at Downs street to allow a passenger to alight.

An X-ray will be taken today to ascertain the extent of the injuries to his head.

Trees Carry Trolley Wire Down.

Then, just as Motorman Dawe started the trolley car, there was a sudden crash and two large trees near Kuhlmann's Garage toppled over into the street, carrying with them the trolley wire. Dawe brought his car to a stop and went to the nearest telephone and called up the car barn.

Mr. Klein and other employes responded to the call in an automobile and when they reached the scene started to work chopping away the limbs of the trees to release the trolley wire which lay flat on the brick pavement.

Change in Wind Brings "Twister."

A few minutes after six o'clock heavy clouds were seen moving rapidly toward Kingston from the southwest. There were several flashes of lightning in the distance followed by distant peals of thunder. The storm apparently was about to pass to the north of the city when suddenly, about 6:20 o'clock, the wind veered and the storm after doubling on its track for a short distance headed directly for the uptown section of the city. The appearance of the clouds at this time was awe-inspiring as they rolled and twisted, gradually assuming a circular motion, and to those who have seen severe storms there was every indication that a "twister" was about to swoop down upon the city. A few minutes later it burst with terrific fury.

With the wind blowing from all directions at the same time, trees were whipped around and broken off as in a tornado. Following the first gust of wind the rain came down in sheets and driven by the high wind which altered its direction every moment, the rain was driven in homes and considerable damage done.

Storm Broke After Hot Day.

The storm broke after one of the hottest days of the season. Throughout the day there had been a brisk breeze to give some relief, but Kingston had sweltered during the late afternoon.

The severe storm was accompanied by some hail in portions of the city but the main damage was from the wind.

Transmission Lines Carried Down.

Early during the storm lights and power went off as transmission lines were carried down by falling trees. The trolley line was out of commission early when in several places trees fell across the feed wire and carried it down. The trolley wire was also snapped off in several places.

At St. James street near Broadway a large tree fell across the street, carrying down and breaking the trolley wire. The power was turned off as soon as the storm broke and this undoubtedly saved many from injuries from that source. The trolley wire at St. James street was picked up and danger signals placed by trolley employes.

Three Trees Block Broadway.

On Broadway north of Elmendorf street three trees were blown over on the wires within a short distance and traffic for a time was blocked until men could clear up the street and permit traffic to proceed. Around the corner, on Elmendorf street, another tree was blown over. Just east of Broadway on Downs street another large tree was blown down.

Liberty and Franklin Streets Blocked.

On Liberty street a huge tree was blown down against the roofs of the homes at Nos. 40 and 38, damaging the roofs considerably. The street force under Superintendent Mills were busy Friday night and during the morning hours today removing the trees from the roofs and clearing up the street so that traffic could pass through it.

Franklin street, near Prospect street, was blocked by a large tree and on Henry street in front of the Mulhern residence a tree was blown down and several limbs and trees were damaged.

Albany Avenue Section Suffered.

The Albany avenue section of the city suffered also. In front of the Abramowitz residence a big maple tree broke off some distance from the ground. The tree fell over the electric light wires but they withstood the weight and Mr. Abramowitz stationed his sons at the point to notify traffic until employes from the electric light company made an inspection to determine if there was immediate danger of the wires breaking. At the rear of the Abramowitz residence several other trees went down.

Further out Albany avenue several trees were blown down and traffic was for a time diverted through Smith avenue and Elmendorf street.

On Tremper avenue a tree was blown over against a house.

Cave-in on Albany Avenue.

Albany avenue caved in again near the old cave-in at Manor avenue and traffic was detoured.

A tree was also blown down in front of the residence of Mrs. Zadoc P. Boice on Albany avenue at the head of Broadway. Workmen quickly cleared the street at this point to allow traffic to proceed.

Out Albany avenue near Mountain View Inn trees were blown down and traffic held up.

Trees Reported Blown Down.

Among the trees reported as blown down were those located at 209 and 195 Albany avenue; Albany avenue at Manor avenue; 138 Cedar street; 41 Cedar street; 35 Henry street; Broadway and Albany avenue; 114 Downs street; Clifton avenue; Park street; Wiltwyck Cemetery near the main entrance; East Chester street and Highland avenue; 166 Downs street; 73 Hoffman street; 364 Washington avenue; 55 Garden street, two trees; Franklin and Prospect streets; Washington avenue and Lucas avenue; 70 Hoffman streeet.

The above is only a partial list of the trees blown down. It was impossible to obtain a complete list as Superintendent Mills was busy all day with every available man clearing up the streets and removing the fallen trees to the city dumps so that streets could be opened to traffic.

Superintendent Mills and his men worked until midnight Friday using every available man and truck in the work of clearing away the debris caused by the storm.

Tree Crashes Through Garage Roof

A large maple tree on the Carter place on Albany avenue was split during the storm and fell through the roof of the Stagler garage adjoining. A young man working in the garage escaped injury by running out of the building when he heard the crash.

In the vicinity of the J. O. U. A. M. building on Henry street there was a tangled mass of trees which blocked traffic. At 49 Henry street a tree and pole crashed across the roof.

Homes Damaged by Rain

The rain, which fell in torrents for nearly twenty minutes, was driven by the high wind and in many portions of the city was driven in open windows in homes, causing considerable damage to walls and furniture.

On Fair street near the Teller residence the trolley feed wire was broken by a large limb. Temporary repairs were made by the trolley company. At the Forsyth residence another large limb came down, blocking traffic, but fortunately no wires were broken.

The stately old trees in the First Dutch Church yard suffered from the storm but no serious damage was done them other than limbs and branches torn loose.

Little Damage Downtown

While to the residents of the downtown section the storm appeared to be the worst in years there was but little damage caused downtown.

Advancing Years Depend on Care

In Order to Grow Old and Retain Health and Strength, Greater Attention Must Be Given By Individuals to Hygiene of Adult and Middle Life—Good Mental Health Also.

The average length of life in New York state has materially increased in recent years according to Dr. William L. Munson, district state health officer, who broadcast a health talk on the subject of advancing years from Station WGY on Friday night. But if the average man is to reach the Biblical age of 70 years more attention must be paid to the prevention of heart, kidney and arterial diseases.

"The psalmist's statement, 'The days of our years are three score years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is their strength, labor, and sorrow,' said Dr. Munson, "sets forth two very striking truths: first, we have a right to expect to live to a ripe, old age, this being the common heritage; and second, that just to exist by strength alone may be sorrow and may not be desirable.

"Whether or not you are willing to concede that public health is responsible, it is a fact that human life is being measurably lengthened. In 1901 the average length of life of males in New York state was 46. In 1926 it was 53, an increase of 15 per cent.

"But if we of the present and the coming generation expect to attain unto the Biblical period of seventy years, it is necessary that we pay more attention to the hygiene of adult and middle life, for while the death rates among the younger age groups during the past two decades have been constantly going down, the rates in the groups of forty and over have been constantly going up.

"Deaths from heart, kidney, and arterial diseases and from cancer must be reduced if we are to make further large reductions in mortality and further to lengthen life.

Individual Must Know Himself

"Progress depends on the individual. He must acquaint himself with what good personal hygiene means and then he must practice it. He must learn to know himself, what his individual requirements are, where his powers begin, and what his limitations are. He must learn poise, self-control, and self-denial and he must learn to use his will power.

"Girth is not the goal of age. Pounds and paunch produce sloth,—a mental and physical slowing down. We must learn to control our appetites. Unless we are willing to do this we must expect to pay the penalty by having our lives shortened by heart, arterial and kidney diseases.

"We must learn to recognize the possibility of cancer in every growth or enlargement of tissue and we must be willing early to have such growths removed and examined under the microscope. In this way only lies safety.

"There seems to be another attribute of life beside length that should be our aim to attain and that is happiness, contentment, a joy in living. There is not much to be said in favor of long life just for the sake of the number of years.

"Prolongation of life would reasonably be supposed to be for more work, more play, more joy and not for sorrow. When one's ability to use his head, his heart and his hand is gone, the time for departure is at hand.

"Seneca said: 'Nothing is more dishonorable than an old man, heavy with years, who has no other evidence of his having lived long except his years.'

"With good physical health there ought to be good mental health. We are told that by practicing good thinking, by reading good literature, by hearing good music, and by selecting good companions we acquire a good mental attitude, and that the greatest of all graces,—poise and self-control may be ours for: 'He that ruleth his spirit, is better than he that taketh a city.'"

ASSOCIATED PRESS MEN MUST NOT SHOW FAVOR

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—All employes of the Associated Press have received the following from Kent Cooper, general manager:

"We are on the eve of what promises to be a memorable political campaign. Every Associated Press man will share in the responsibility it imposes.

"Keep in mind the necessity that our report must be absolutely nonpartisian. Avoid predictions, speculation and editorial opinion. Insofar as we are responsible for what is said, there must be nothing that may be construed for or against any political faction. Do not use stories of election betting or straw votes. In describing attendance at political meetings do not estimate capacity in numbers or in any manner open to disputes.

"But we want all the news. Do not withhold a story because it is partisan, if it may be attributed to a responsible source, for example, statements from political headquarters are desired if they contain news and are credited to party spokesmen. These statements must speak for themselves, and their leads should be brief, without inference, deduction or other editorial comment. All anonymous expressions of opinion must be avoided. Write only what can be substantiated.

"During the campaign, as at all other times, The Associated Press report must be fair, truthful and impartial."

20.—The Wartime Election of 1864

AS THE crucial wartime election of 1864 approached, President Lincoln was between two fires.

On the one hand were the Democrats demanding a cessation of the war and settlement around the conference table, and blaming Lincoln's administration for what was construed to be too severe a policy against the "copperheads."

At the other extreme were the radical Republican faction, dissatisfied because they believed Lincoln's policy had not been vigorous enough, nor the administration sentiment toward the South sufficiently bitter.

Two unsuccessful generals were brought forward to head election tickets representing the respective dissatisfied elements.

Strangely enough, there was another group, including such figures as Horace Greeley, who while professing to find Lincoln's administration satisfactory, insisted even at such a critical juncture that no President ought to be given more than one term, because none had been given two for the last thirty years.

Lincoln, for his part, was willing to step aside if it seemed best for the country. But his renomination by the main body of Republicans was a foregone conclusion. He had all but 22 votes of the Baltimore convention of the party, styling itself the Union National convention. Twenty-two Missouri delegates wanted to nominate General Grant, but switched their votes to make the Lincoln choice unanimous.

The platform demanded prosecution of the war to a finish and amendment of the Constitution so that slavery never could be re-established.

To help hold the loyalty of border states and win over Democratic votes, Andrew Johnson, Democratic wartime governor of Tennessee, was made Lincoln's running-mate. It was a choice the party was to rue when Johnson succeeded to the Presidency upon Lincoln's assassination.

The radical Republicans, about 400 of them, met at Cleveland, nominated Gen. John C. Fremont, and adopted a severe platform. One of its demands was for confiscation of lands belonging to Confederates, to be redistributed among Northern soldiers.

When Lincoln received reports of Fremont's nomination and the Cleveland convention proceedings, he said they reminded him of the Bible story about the Cave of Adullam, to which came "every one that was in distress, and every one that was discontented . . . and there were with him about 400 men."

The Democrats purposely delayed their convention till late in August, feeling that summer events on the battlefield might further clarify the political outlook. By the time they assembled, Union defeats in the war, together with imminent prospect of another army draft, had indeed brought public feeling in the North to a low ebb of discouragement. Peace-at-any-price sentiment was gaining.

In late August the time was ripe for Clement L. Vallandingham of Ohio, who once had been chased out of the North for his defeatist maneuvers, to recross the border from Canada and, as a leading member of the Democratic platform committee, to give a strong peace-at-any-price tone to the platform through a resolution declaring that the war had been a failure and that immediate efforts must be made to bring about a cessation of hostilities.

To stand on this defeatist plank the convention nominated Gen. George B. McClellan, who had commanded the Army of the Potomac. He refused to stand there. Though accepting the nomination, he vigorously repudiated the Vallandingham plank, declaring he could not look into the faces of the men he had led in the service and tell them the sacrifices of their dead and wounded comrades had been vain.

Northern military triumphs were almost immediately to make the peace plank meaningless, anyhow. The ink was hardly dry on McClellan's acceptance when the news came that Sherman had taken Atlanta. Farragut had won the Battle of Mobile Bay. Sheridan had swept triumphantly through the Shenandoah valley with his victories at Winchester and Fisher's Hill.

The Republicans had been in deep despair. Lincoln's advisers had been telling him his defeat was almost certain. Convinced of the truth of their gloomy prophecies, in late August he had had his cabinet indorse a memorandum virtually promising to hand the administration immediately over to his successor, to save the Union, in the event of Republican defeat at the polls.

Then the tide suddenly turned. Military victories heartened public sentiment. Fremont withdrew his candidacy. The triumph of "Old Abe" over "Little Mac" was assured.

But it was a close decision. Though Lincoln had 212 electoral votes to 21 for the Democratic nominee, he ran fewer than 500,000 votes ahead of McClellan in a total popular vote of 4,000,000. A possible change of only 60,000 popular votes in a few strategic or doubtful states could have reversed the whole result and elected McClellan.

Must Complete Circuit

The fact that birds can sit on an electric wire is because there is not a complete circuit. If a bird were to alight on a wire and one of its wings touch another wire, it would be apt to cause death.

Announcing the
New Utility Truck
-another Sensational Chevrolet Value
4 Speeds Forward • 4 Wheel Brakes

Now Chevrolet presents the New Utility Truck—a low-priced haulage unit embodying those modern features of advanced engineering developed through years of experience in commercial car building, and proved by exhaustive testing on the General Motors proving ground!

Typical of the progressive design embodied in this sensational new truck is a four-speed transmission with an extra-low gear, providing tremendous pulling power for heavy roads, deep sand and steep hills—and reducing to the very minimum the starting strain on motor, clutch and rear axle!

Powerful, non-locking 4-wheel brakes, with a rugged emergency brake that operates entirely independent of the foot brake system, give a new measure of safety and utility of vital importance in everyday operation!

And a new ball bearing worm-and-gear steering mechanism, which even includes ball bearings at the front axle knuckles, provides an order of handling ease never before experienced in a low-priced truck!

In addition, the new Utility Truck offers all those basic features which have been so largely instrumental in Chevrolet's success as the world's largest builder of trucks—rugged rear axle with one-piece banjo-type housing . . . four semi-elliptic truck type springs, set parallel to the load . . . air cleaner, oil filter and positive action vane-type oil pump . . . thermostatic control of water circulation . . . low loading height . . . and generous road clearance.

No matter what your business may be—come in and get a demonstration of this remarkable new truck. You'll find that it offers every feature needed for dependable low-cost transportation—and we can provide you with a body type to meet your individual requirements.

Polish Airmen May Have Swung Back to Europe

London, Aug. 4 (AP).—The possibility that the Polish transatlantic plane Marszalek Pilsudski, which started for the United States early yesterday, has swung around and is returning to Europe was suggested today by a message received from the British steamer Amakura.

The Valentia wireless station reported receiving the following message from the Amakura:

"5:00 a. m. Greenwich Meridan time (12:00 p. m. Friday eastern standard time) 46.20 north 20.40 west, airplane approached from the westward, encircled the ship at a distance of half a mile at a height of 500 feet and disappeared northward flying very fast. No signal."

At 2:40 a. m. Greenwich time a biplane was reported by the Norwegian tank steamer Aztec at 44.20 north and 24.08 west thus slightly more than two hours after being sighted by the Aztec. The plane appeared to have been sighted by the Amakura, having progressed in a northwesterly direction.

So far as known, there are no airplanes in the region mentioned by the two ships, except the Marszalek Pilsudki. The Polish plane carried no wireless and messages from ships offered the only method of gauging her course and position.

Brewery Raided At Tannersville

A wildcat brewery on the outskirts of the village of Tannersville was seized Thursday night about 19:15 by federal agents working out of the local office here. The brewery was a large one for this type of plant and was equipped to make beer by what is known as the cold water process, a quick process.

The brewery was located on the farm of Stephen G. Kornell and there was arrested on the premises Herman Schriber, who gave his address as Mossmere, N. J. Schriber is the same man who was arrested several months ago in a wildcat brewery at Hudson, Columbia county. Schriber was placed under arrest and arraigned before Justice Levey at Tannersville and held under $1,500 bail for appearance before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly at Kingston on August 9, at 10:30 o'clock.

The plant was established in a large outbuilding which had formerly been used as a garage. The equipment included eight 1,500 gallon fermenting and storage tanks, electric driven pumps and compressors and a complete electric lighting plant, carbonaters, filters, vats and all neceessary equipment to turn out a large quantity of beer. There was also seized a large number of 50 gallon barrels of malt syrups.

Most of the equipment was destroyed on the spot by the agents but a quantity of the more valuable equipment was removed from the premises to the government storage garage in this city.

Daily Activity in Political Arena

(By The Associated Press.)

Stanford University, Cal.—Herbert Hoover completed drafting speech formally accepting presidential nomination.

Boise, Idaho—Senator Borah appealed to both parties to limit campaign expenditures to $3,000,000 each.

Richmond—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Methodist Church, South announced series anti-Smith conferences to be held in southern cities.

Washington—Representatives of 22 railroad labor organizations voted not to endorse any particular presidential candidate.

PROSPECTIVE RESIDENTIAL AREA OPENED HERE

An area consisting of 25 building lots, suitable for residential properties, has been opened at Hurley avenue and Quarry street. Sam N. Mann, realtor of 12 East Strand, has been engaged as agent for the sale of the lots. It is expected that the area will be sold in a comparatively short period, owing to the location. It is near the uptown business section of the city and conveniences are within reach. An advertisement in another part of The Freeman explains more thoroughly the property for sale.

Veterans to Picnic Sunday.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold their picnic Sunday at the Maple Hill Inn, Maple Hill, just off the Rosendale road. The picnics they have held in the past were well attended and all reported a good time, not only at the picnic but at the dance which is held in the evening after the picnic with Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra furnishing the music.

Fare Increased In Schenectady

Albany, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Public Service Commission today granted an application on the Schenectady Railway Company for permission to increase its fares, fixing the rate at three tickets for 25 cents, with a 10 cent cash fare.

The present fare is seven cents in Schenectady, with a like fare in the outside divisions of the company. The application was made in July, 1927, and asked for a flat 10 cent cash fare, but the Commission held that some form of commuration fare was desirable and directed the company to file a schedule on that basis. The schedule may become effective on three days' notice to the commission.

The commission stated that a study of results showing operations indicated such a low return now being earned by the company that no question need arise as to the justice of granting its application for a fare increase. The report of the Commission held that $11,000,000 would be a fair valuation of the property of the company used and usable at the present time, but added that under the schedule of results showing operations, it was unnecessary to fix a valuation.

The city of Schenectady originally objected to the jurisdiction of the Commission, but the Supreme Court, in February, denied the city's application for a writ of prohibition.

EXCELSIOR BAND SUSPENDS FRIDAY NIGHT CONCERTS

During the time the members of Excelsior Hose Symphony Band are playing the municipal concerts each Tuesday evening in the rear of the high school, there will be no public concert by the band from the balcony of the Elks' Club on Fair street Friday evenings. The regular rehearsals of the band, however, will be held each Monday and Friday evening at the engine rooms on Hurley avenue. All members of the band are urged to attend a rehearsal Monday evening in preparation for the city concert Tuesday evening.

Rain prevented the band from giving its scheduled concert Friday night. No concert was given on Friday night last week owing to a severe rain storm.

DECLARES AGRICULTURE MUST LOOK TO ITSELF

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 4 (AP).—Agriculture must look to itself for its salvation or it will become a lame dog whining for special aid, Dr. C. R. Fay, professor of political economy at the University of Toronto, declared today in an address before members of the Institute of Politics.

This, he said, is due to several reasons.

Majority power, he said, is permanently in the hands of industry and commerce. Another is the impossibility for farmers to maintain a standard of life comparable with that of the towners unless their production per man is constantly growing. This means the replacement of man power by machine power wherever possible.

Agriculture, he said, is not one, but many industries, each having its own marketing problems demanding solution, whereas government can only legislate for the mass. A measure of farm relief which aids one section, he pointed out, may be of negligible interest to another. Or it may be directly hostile to the interests of another, if, for example, its purpose is to maintain the price of certain products which a second agricultural section uses as its raw material.

The important needs of agriculture, he said, are not that it should set the pace to the rest of the nation, nor even that its members should increase in wealth as fast as the ranks of industry and commerce, but rather that as a group of industries it should attain comparative economic stability.

There have been two men who really understood women. One is dead and the other is crazy.

EXPLORATION'S PERILS.

Commander Byrd, who is getting ready for a great expedition to the Antarctic, could not possibly be induced to comment on the scandals following the Italia disaster, but we may be sure that he has read all the accounts and rumors with grave attention and given troubled thought to the questions raised thereby. What is the leader of an exploring party to do when a disabled member can neither go on nor be carried, when going on is imperative for the safety of all? Shall loyalty to one comrade be allowed to put all in imminent peril, or shall the one be left to certain death to save the lives of the many? The question has even been asked as to whether the leader is justified in shooting the wounded member whom it has been decided to leave to certain death on the trail.

Out of war have come tales of seemingly callous inhumanity which on the scene itself may have been regarded as only stern necessity, as well as tales of cowardly or homicidal panic which may have been the result of mental derangement. Under terrific war strain there may be reached the breaking point of the nervous system, and we are apt to forget that explorers facing merciless nature in Arctic wastes may come under a more terrible strain than even that of war. The splendid story of exploration, in the event of disaster, will inevitably have its darker side. As we struggle to be just to the ill-fated men of the Italia, inevitably we shrink from the thought of what may befall the bold expedition of our own Commander Byrd.

The world's rubber stocks are "dangerously low", the president of the Rubber Exchange reports. "The shrinkage since the first of the year is noteworthy." This situation will correct itself. A short time ago the market was drugged with superfluous rubber. Lower prices, rather than larger number of motor cars in use, have exhausted that surplus and produced what rubber men call "a healthy situation". Prices will go up now, with two results—production will be stimulated anew, and automobile owners will buy fewer tires, making the old ones last longer. It was mainly conservation of old tires that broke the high price monopoly of British East Indian rubber magnates. Buying new tires lavishly when they are low restores high prices. The two eternal truths of economic law are strikingly exemplified. And Congress does not have to pass "relief" legislation.

...000 people visited ...ks last year. Appar... our national ...00 or 4,000,000 are visiting ... this year. The more accessible parks are crowded, some of them almost to suffocation. There is real congestion in the Yosemite and Yellowstone, with thousands of families packed together in tents and hotels overflowing and roads and trails jammed with cars and cloudy with dust. The parks are for the people, and roads have to be built to admit the people, and it should be a cause of satisfaction when they come. Yet the situation calls for serious study. When too many come, they spoil each other's pleasure. Must our remote parks in mountains and forests become like city parks? Are we to have no more quiet places for tourists who want solitude for a little while?

America, most powerful, wealthy and fortunate of nations, is nevertheless the greatest worrier. Observes a minister, "Worry is the most deadly national sin of the United States today." He says visitors from abroad are depressed when they stand on our street corners and look at the passing people—we have such a careworn look. Why so careworn? "Because we have so many things," says this pastoral critic. Yet if we lost any of these things, we would be still more worried. Worry may not be a "sin", but assuredly it is a destroyer. It is an enemy of happiness, strength, growth and progress. When we accomplish what we do while worrying our heads off and our hearts out, what could we accomplish if we had time and the will to think?

A complete human body, about a hundred years ago, was found in New York city. The bodies were found in a vacant lot, and the remains were identified as those of a man who had been murdered by three men. They were tried, convicted, and their fortunes told, with a prize for the most accurate and interesting [illegible] and entertaining [illegible] ...ages and ... children, newspaper vendors, peddlers, and concert and radio singers. Nearly all were suffering pretty ... from the old days when a blind man was expected to sit idly by the side of a road or sidewalk with a beggar's cup in his hand.

Samuel Mather, the "wealthiest citizen" of Cleveland and who was formerly an ardent advocate of prohibition and a contributor to the Anti-Saloon League, has accepted a place on the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Even if this may not be generally accepted as "a sign of the times," it is at least a fact of some interest.

BRAINS AND ATHLETICS.

One of the signs of the present trend in newspapers is the space given to sports or athletics. From the column or half page of former years we see now one, two, four and even six pages given to describing past or future athletic events.

Now that too many watch athletics and not enough engage in them is perhaps true, but when a single good sized city can boast of 430 hockey teams, 900 softball teams, 100 soccer, 40 rugby, 150 hard ball baseball teams, besides all the track and field athletics, and other cities can likely do the same in proportion to their size, then there is something very hopeful in the situation.

It is only natural that parents should be just a little afraid of injuries to their children in these sports, but as mentioned before, it is this giving and taking, this willingness to take a bump that develops the youngster physically, mentally, and morally.

Further, parents often point to the fact that Bill Jones, the very prominent athlete, never did much at school. He wanted to play every game in its season, and so there was no time for study.

Now what about athletics and standing in school?

Dr. A. H. Mumford, medical officer of the Manchester grammar school, classified about 7,000 boys as to physical activity and compared this with their work in school.

He found that boys who won scholarships to Oxford and Cambridge displayed a bodily physique decidedly superior to average boys. This finding seemed to show these boys did better work in school with less effort. It was shown that the greater the degree of mental ability the greater was the excellence in sports.

At universities now a student can not represent his university if he has failed in his studies of previous year.

This of course keeps some athletes at the ... would be. However they ... of the days when the standing by the studies was necessary. I looked up the records of one of the largest universities in America and found that not one of the students who had been awarded his university color in athletics had failed in his examinations. In fact, many of them had attained very high standing and scholarships.

What is my point?

That all games and sports really help the mentality aside from the physical and moral development attained.

Mount Lassen Active

Mount Lassen, America's principal active volcano, is still asleep, but the spectacular effect produced by blowing clouds of ashes mixing with the steam that the crater is continually emitting may give the illusion of a return to activity. The effect is especially striking when it occurs near sunrise or sunset, reports B. H. Finch, associate volcanologist of the United States geological survey, whose job it is to keep his finger on the pulse of the slumbering volcano. That it is merely slumbering, and not dead, is indicated not only by the steam, but by frequent earthquakes. Sometimes several shocks occur on the same day.

Old-Time "Horne" Book Hard to Find Today

Not a book in form, though one in name, the "horne" books, says Boston Magazine, was made of a thin piece of wood usually about four or five inches long and two inches wide, with a sheet of paper glued on one side. Printed on this at the top was the alphabet in large and small letters. Below were the simple syllables, ab, eb, ib, ob, ub and other vowel and consonant combinations. Then followed the Lord's prayer, often omitted from any of the early textbooks. To the children, and for a religious life, the appearance of this prayer was far more important than any educational device whatsoever.

Over the white printed page was a thin sheet of transparent yellowish horn. Both the paper and the horn were fastened to the board by a narrow strip of metal held down by little tacks, a simple and primitive process. Mrs. Earle, that charming chronicler of Colonial times, tells of finding crosses at the two upper corners of the page. Hence to read a horn book was often called reading a "criss-cross row."

Today a horn book is rare. The mystery is not in their absence so much as in their complete disappearance. Surely in those days of large families there must have been a plenteous supply of "those humble little instruments of instruction."

Ignorant?

People may be unlettered but not ignorant. Many men and women who never learned to read or write have been good and great people. Education is not necessarily college education. The man who can most successfully adjust himself to the changing circumstances of life is the educated man.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Rose's Age-Old Popularity

Song and legend of the Greeks, the Persians and the Chinese testify that the rose was cultivated in earliest times. The rose is the national flower of one great race, but it is loved by all and is the monopoly of no one race or creed. At Athens 2500 years ago the rose was crowned the queen of flowers. George Washington in his delightful gardens at Mount Vernon grew from seed a hybrid rose based on the native Rosa setigera and named it Mary Washington. By giving his permission for this to be grown and sold he thus started the good work of producing roses of American lineage.

Leap Year Privilege

In London, in 1696, there appeared a book cclept, "Courtship, Love and Matrimony," in which appeared the illuminating paragraph: "Albeit it has now become a part of the common lawe in regarde to social relations of life that as often as every bissextile year doth return the ladys have the sole privilege during the time it continueth of making love to the men, which they do either by words or by lookes, as to them it seemeth proper; and, moreover, no man shall be entitled to the benefit of clergy who dothe in any wise treate her proposal with slight or contumely."

Ornithopolis

Below Sidon, but above or north of Tyre, lay a city called in ancient time Ornithopolis, meaning the city of birds. Much of the glass now called by us Sidonian is decorated with birds in various poses, sitting, flying, nesting. Many of the birds resemble storks and swans, a circumstance which suggests that this city was a center for the manufacture of glass in the time of Augustus and Tiberius.

The Week in Wall Street

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength this week in the face of further efforts to control the unwieldy credit situation created by the large volume of funds loaned on stock and bond collateral by large corporations, insurance companies and other non-bank lenders. There were several flurries of selling during the week as call money fluctuated between 6 and 8 per cent, but each time these were followed by brisk recoveries which lifted many issues to new high records.

New York banks, heeding the warnings of federal reserve authorities, have reduced their brokers' loans substantially in recent months, but this withdrawal of funds has been more than offset by the huge volume of funds invested in the call money market by industrial, railroad and other corporations. In many cases bank deposits have been drawn down and the funds loaned on call at interest rates yielding double the bank rate.

In an effort to remedy this situation the New York Clearing House Association has adopted regulations increasing the commission charge from 5 per cent of the amount received as interest to half of one per cent of the amount loaned, and raised the minimum loan to $100,000 or multiples thereof, effective September 1. At the same time the banks have increased the interest charge paid on call and time deposits.

Federal reserve brokers' loan figures increased more than $75,000,000 this week and rediscounts of the New York Bank showed a gain of nearly $29,500,000. New York Stock Exchange member loans dropped $61,000,000 in the month of July.

Buying of stocks was of a selective character with the oils giving one of the best demonstrations of group strength. Atlantic Refining made a spectacular gain on the publication of a semi-annual report showing earnings of nearly $10 a share in the first half of the year, and on talk of a 4 for 1 stock split-up with a higher dividend on the new stock. Other oils responded to the announcement that oil stocks in storage showed a decrease in June for the first time since August, 1926, and to a series of gas line price advances.

Motor shares also presented several points of strength on reports of record breaking mid-summer sales by some of the leading producers. Special strength of Chrysler and Dodge Brothers issues reflected the ratification of the merger of those two concerns.

Mail order shares moved to new high levels on reports of record breaking July earnings. Food, farm implement, amusement, chemical, building construction and public utility issues also developed outstanding strong spots. Textile issues continued to reflect poor trade conditions.

Railroad shares were quiet, publication of relatively poor June earnings reports being offset by reports of expanding traffic, particularly on western carriers.

"Twister" Does Much Damage

fact the section hardest hit was the section above the West Shore railroad.

Downtown only one tree was reported blown down by the wind and that was at 56 Meadow street.

250 'Phones Out of Order

Telephones in this section were also hard hit by the storm, 125 lines and 250 stations being put out of order. Immediately following the damage the entire trouble squad from the local telephone force went to work and continued to repair the damages throughout the night. It is expected that by this afternoon all the lines and stations will be in use and normal service resumed.

Storm Damage Heavy

The damage caused by the storm will run into thousands of dollars in damage to property in the uptown section of the city for huge trees as they were felled by the velocity of the wind crashed against roofs and porches, damaging them badly.

Mostly Maple Trees

According to members of the street department at work clearing up the wreckage the trees felled by the storm were mostly maple trees.

Power Off While Danger Lasts.

On account of the number of wires down and the danger to workmen clearing away the refuse, the power remained off for a long time and the street lights were not turned on until the danger of possible injury was past. House lighting circuits were turned on early but street lights were off not only in Kingston but also in Port Ewen until late at night.

Storm Comparatively Light Elsewhere.

South of Kingston there was a heavy storm but it was comparatively light when compared to the storm in the upper portion of Kingston. There was considerable wind but the rain south of Kingston was not so heavy. At Mt. Marion there was but little rain. Lightning struck a tree near the covered bridge but no damage was reported.

Saugerties reported but little rain and wind and no damage, while at Lake Katrine the storm was quite severe, rain falling in great quantities and a high wind which tore limbs from trees. Rosendale was visited by the storm but there was no damage reported.

No Damage at Hurley.

At Hurley the storm was severe, with heavy rain and wind, but no damage was reported and one resident after viewing the damage in Kingston stated the storm evidently was much more severe in this city than at Hurley.

Bathers Desert Water.

The sweltering day caused many to go to Kingston Point Bath Beach for relief and although there was ample warning that a storm was approaching many remained on the beach in the hope that it might pass over. The arrival of the wind and rain soon sent the bathers from the water scurrying to shelter in the bath houses.

Driving in the Moonlight.

While the lights in the city were out during the evening a beautiful moon played a very important part in illuminating to a great extent, Broadway, over which there was very heavy transient traffic. Tourists by the light of the moon were able to traverse streets strange to them and proceed with but little difficulty.

Fair Grounds Fence Damaged.

During the height of the storm several sections of the fence surrounding the ball park at the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., at the head of North Front street, were blown down. The fence gave way in a number of places and perhaps one-third of the entire fence is down.

A large maple tree in front of the brick property owned by Gold on Washington avenue was blown down, crashing on the house.

Truck Farmers Suffer.

A great deal of damage was done on the flats across the Higginsville bridge in the town of Ulster. Corn fields were blown flat and many other crops were damaged or destroyed. Grain which was standing was blown down and the loss in the farming districts will be considerable. The storm Friday was the second destructive storm which the truck gardeners on the Kingston flats have suffered this year. The other damage was caused by high water which flooded out many of the crops on the lowlands.

Damage Began at Stony Hollow.

In the town of Olive the storm was not so severe. Jacob V. Merrihew, who was at his farm near Tongore, reports that but little rain fell at that place but as he came towards Kingston the effects of the storm could be plainly seen. Following the storm into Kingston he first noticed evidence of damage at Spillway, where it rained hard and there was wind. From Stony Hollow down the damage increased and on the flats the damage was severe with practically every cornfield laid low by the wind.

ANOTHER OF VON OPEL'S ROCKET CARS WRECKED.

Hanover, Germany, Aug. 4 (AP).—Another of Fritz Von Opel's rocket cars has come to grief.

The car Rak IV was making its first test on a railroad track from Burgwedel to Celle and was derailed at the same spot where the Rak III left the rails on June 23. One rocket exploded the wrong way and the Rak IV was wrecked. There were no casualties.

Future tests were postponed indefinitely.

Third Day of Heat Wave; Showers May Bring Relief

Seven Deaths Directly Attributable To Heat Wave Occurred in East—Weather Bureau Sees No Relief In Sight Until Sunday Afternoon.

(By the Associated Press.)

The temperature climbed while the humidity dropped in the East today and the only relief in prospect was local thunderstorms being distributed by a capricious rain maker.

While soaring temperatures prevailed generally, some localities received temporary respite by thunderstorms.

A thunderstorm hit Sandy Hook, about 25 miles down New York Bay, and Staten Island, about five miles from Manhattan Island, but the city proper received nothing but more withering sunshine.

Similar tricks were played by the weather man in upper New York state and in Connecticut, where some cities lost electric power and suffered damage by thunderstorms, adjoining sections remained arid.

The government weather bureau said the temperature in New York would go beyond 90 today with no relief in sight until tomorrow afternoon. Weather somewhat cooler will prevail after the rain, authorities said. The relief may be carried to some other sections.

At the start of the third day of the heat wave the thermometer in New York fluctuated a few degrees, but at 6 a. m. began climbing from 76. It reached 87 by 11 a. m.

Seven deaths directly attributable to the heat wave occurred in the east, in addition to numerous drownings and some death by lightning. A 15 year old girl was killed and a woman injured by lightning during an electrical storm in Toronto, Can.

14th Anniversary Of World War

German Troops Entered Belgium and Great Britain The War at Midnight—Louvain Controversy Reveals Fact With New Strength.

London, Aug. 4 (AP).—While Louvain, Belgium, stands divided into two camps of "lest we forget" and "lest we remember," Europe today, 14 years after the opening of the World War, slowly is forgetting the agonies of 1914-1918.

Fourteen years ago today German troops entered Belgium, for the sanctity of which Great Britain stood guarantor. At midnight Great Britain entered the War. A state of war already existed between Germany and Russia at that time and Germany had declared war on France the night before.

The incident of Louvain's controversy over the balcony of her new library, whether or not it should contain a stone motto which would serve to perpetuate Belgium's hate of the invading Germans, has served to reveal this fact with new strength.

Edmond Feliz Morren, the foreman who smashed the pillars of the balcony of the Louvain library, lest they should stand without the Latin motto which Whitney Warren, the American architect, had placed there, lives in danger of a five year sentence. In the press he has found few critics and many defenders. Part of his defense will be that his father and mother were deported and he himself wounded and maltreated by the Germans when he was a boy of 16.

In the remainder of Europe, however, the intense hatred of the western powers against the central powers, whom they regard as having caused the war, has appreciably diminished. The governments of France, Great Britain, and Italy, though resolved not to forget the great deeds of their own soldiers, are equally resolved to honor the achievements of their former enemies. Even the phrase "lest we forget" has come to be applied to the disabled soldiers and not to the late enemy.

Commemorated at Brussels.

Brussels, Aug. 4 (AP).—The fourteenth anniversary of the invasion of Belgium by the Germans was commemorated today by a salvo of 21 shots fired by all garrisons. Bells were rung and whistles blown throughout the country.

Plane Crashes In Farm Building

A plane carrying two aviators crashed into a building on the George B. Van Valkenburgh farm at Lexington, Greene county, Thursday while negotiating a take off, which considerably damaged the airship and moved the building from its foundation. The occupants were uninjured.

G. M. Cole of Carbondale, Ill., the owner of the plane, recently purchased in Boston, accompanied by an aviator was flying to his home from the eastern city. Trouble with the compass on the airship forced the pilots to make a landing on the Lexington farm. The field, it was found after landing, was not large enough for the plane to make a take off, so several fences were removed.

The ship, a large one, capable of holding four passengers, ran approximately 1,000 feet before it took to the air. When it did the plane was near the bulding, which it struck, and the collision brought it to earth again with a broken wing and damage to the wheels.

Both the aviators decided to abandon the trip and ship the plane to Albany by truck. After trying several autos one was found large enough to hold the airship. The incident drew hundreds from various parts of the Catskills to see the damaged plane.

Republicans to Caucus Tonight

Republican caucuses will be held in the various wards of the city and in every voting district of the towns of Ulster county tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the Republican County Convention which will be held at the Auditodium Theatre on Pine Grove avenue, Saturday morning, August 11, at 11 o'clock.

All electors both male and female, who believe in the principles of the Republican party, endorse its policies and who are not enrolled in any other party may vote at the caucuses. The polls will be kept open one hour for voting.

Preparing for New Pipe Line

Water Board Arranging to Purchase Necessary Equipment to Lay New Six Mile Pipe Line From Cooper's Lake to Reservoir No. 2.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of water commissioners held Friday afternoon it was decided to make arrangements for purchasing the necessary material and equipment needed in laying the proposed 6-mile pipe line from Cooper's Lake to Reservoir No. 2.

Former Superintendent John H. Harrison, who will have charge of the laying of the pipe line, now has a force of a dozen men at work clearing the way for the new line by removing the brush. It is expected that a larger force of men will be placed at work later. The water board is anxious to employ only local men in the construction work.

The board also transacted considerable routine business before adjourning.

LOVE-SMITTEN INDIAN SETS FIRE TO FOREST

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 4 (AP).—The story of an Indian who set fire to a forest in which the maid who jilted him had fled with his rival came from the north woods today.

Captain Roy Maxwell, director of the provincial air service, tells the story in reporting on the work of his department, part of which was to aid the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in capturing the love-smitten Indian.

The Indian, Captain Maxwell reports, had been singing love songs to a girl of his race. She jilted him and fled with another suitor into the woods. Following them, the rejected suitor waited until the couple entered a forest area in the Lake Savant region. Then he methodically set to work to fire the whole area. A forest ranger surprised him and extinguished the several fires the Indian had set.

Books published in America and England numbered 19,673 in one year. A certain movie star's press agent admits that she reads 'em all.

Radio Hook-up for Hoover Speech

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP).—The largest radio hook-up in history has been arranged for the broadcasting of Herbert Hoover's speech of acceptance of the Republican presidential nomination, to be delivered next Saturday at Palo Alto, Cal.

The ceremonies in the huge stadium of Leland Stanford University will be sent through the air from 81 broadcasting stations in this country and from four or more short-wave transmitting stations for reception in the territorial possessions and foreign countries.

The notification exercises will begin at 4 p. m., Pacific coast time, which means 8 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

Hoover's speech is expected to take about 45 minutes.

Storm Lasts Five Hours at Utica

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—One of the worst thunderstorms in this section in recent years last night indirectly caused the death of Elmer Stillman, a lineman employed by the local power company.

Lightning damaged a transformer and Stillman was sent to repair it. He was killed when he fell from the pole on which the transformer was mounted.

The storm which swept over this city lasted 5 hours, and reached its peak about 1 a. m. today. A house roof was ripped by lightning, while scores of telephone and electric light poles were broken and trees uprooted by the high wind.

In nearby communities communications were severed by the storm. At Ilion practically all telephone wires were down, while at Little Falls trolley service was demoralized. Linemen worked all night and were still busy today repairing the damage.

BELIEVE FIRES STARTED TO FURNISH JOBS.

San Francisco, Aug. 4 (AP).—By placing lighted candles in dry brush, incendiaries have started seven fires in the Orleans district of the Klamath National Forest in the last five days, forest service officials revealed today.

The rangers believed the fires were started to furnish jobs as fire fighters to unemployed men. All the fires were brought under control, and precautions taken to check the firebugs.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING WHILE STANDING AT PUMP

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—Lemuel Tibbles, 35, a farm hand employed near here, was killed by lightning last night while returning from a dance during a severe thunderstorm.

Tibbles stopped at a pump on a farm to obtain a drink and was standing beside the pump when lightning struck it. He died within a few minutes.

The storm damaged crops in this section and telephone and electric systems in Watertown and vicinity. It did not break the heat wave, however. The maximum temperature yesterday was 85, but the humidity was excessive. At 11 a. m., today the mercury stood at 82 degrees.

Mercury 95 at Binghamton.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—With the mercury reaching 95 yesterday indications at 8 o'clock this morning were that the temperature would go still higher unless thunder storms intervene. John Malone, 69, was overcome with the heat and removed to the city hospital. It is thought he will recover.

Increase Your Comfort This Winter And Save Money.

Let Our Gas Holder Be Your Fuel Bin.

The amount of fuel that is required to heat any home depends on the outside temperature and the rate at which the heat inside seeps through the walls and roof of the house.

We have, of course, no control over weather conditions.

Modern developments in home building, however, include the use of insulated materials, such as cork board, gypsum in its various forms, mineral wool, and the several types of vegetable fibre boards.

Properly applied, such insulation, which can be used in old homes as well as houses under construction, will save 25% to 40% of your yearly heating costs.

Such a saving makes the use of gas for house heating particularly attractive, as in many cases the yearly gas bill will be little higher than the cost of other fuel burned before the house was insulated.

And remember an insulated house is cooler in the summer.

Let our house heating engineers tell you more about insulation and its part in making house heating with gas really economical.

The Nook at Woodstock, the popular ice cream and soda emporium of the art colony, with its colorful plaza, is displaying in one of the windows an exhibit of oil paintings by Ruth Murchison.

The public will find here some very colorful sketches which make attractive souvenirs to send, or take home with them. This artist has attracted much attention from teachers and from established artists for her extremely original and highly talented color technique. She shows several large portrait pictures, the subjects lending themselves harmoniously to the colors used by the artist. These portraits have been reproduced for framed pictures, and the originals have a double value thereby. In the smaller sketches flowers and designs are enough to give the artist a chance to weave beautiful color patterns. The Nook proprietor, in putting these window exhibits before the public has done much to stimulate an almost European interest in art for the people.

Already a great many people have been attracted by the new show just off the plaza along the main street through Woodstock.

Picnic at Hasbrouck Park.

A picnic and outing will be held at Hasbrouck Park Sunday, August 4, by the Sacred Heart Society at which time a merry afternoon can be spent by all who attend. Everybody welcome.

GRANGERS ENJOY LECTURE ON TELEPHONE SERVICE

Rosendale, Aug. 4—The Grange held a meeting at the hall, with a most interesting and unexpected visit from Harold Taylor, who is connected with the New York Telephone Company. Mr. Taylor, during the lecture hour, gave an address, with illustrated pictures, consisting of five reels, from the beginning to the end, of securing the lumber from the north woods, for the poles, the stringing of wires, cause of delay, lack of service due to criticism, down to the minutest detail. It is hoped Mr. Taylor will repeat his lecture which was fine.

A cafeteria supper will be held in All Saints' parish house under the auspices of the guild on Thursday, August 16, at 6 o'clock. A fine menu will be served. There will also be a sale of fancy and useful articles. A cordial welcome is extended to all to attend.

The ladies of All Saints' Guild held their meeting with Mrs. Hasbrouck and enjoyed a porch party on the lawn on Thursday afternoon. Ways and means were discussed for future work. Ice cream and cake were served.

A Lot of This Breed

The short-tailed shrew is probably the most numerous mammal in eastern United States, says Nature Magazine. It will be found in wooded lands, cut-over forests, fields and along streams, wherever the ground is soft enough to push aside for the shrew's passage.

ROUNDING UP PETTY FARM PRODUCE THIEVES.

From the amount of fruit, vegetables and other property which city motorists steal from farms, one would suppose that they were under the impression that everything growing out in the country is free to all comers. Certainly if they stopped to think of the labor and money a farmer puts into his crops, and that they are his only means of livelihood, they would refrain from stealing unless they were hardened thieves.

The Vigilance Service, organized by the State Farm Bureau Federation, is doing valuable work in protecting farm property from these thoughtless persons. The service works in close cooperation with state troopers and local constabularies, actual handling of cases of theft being done by the police. The rewards which the Vigilance Service offers for information leading to the arrest and conviction of thieves, $25 for grand larceny and $10 for petty larceny, are proving very effective in running down thieves. They have made farmers alert for strangers trespassing not only on their own property but on a neighbor's as well. It therefore behooves the city motorist to stay on his own side of the fence when passing a tempting farm garden, or he may find himself paying a heavy fine for his trespass.

Develop the Spirit

Life compared with eternity is but a speck of time. The only part of us that is permanent is the spirit.—American Magazine.

She is named executrix and letters testamentary were granted to her. Value of estate, $2,500 personal. Andrew J. Cook is attorney for the petitioner.

News From the World on Wheels

Six Packard Six cars, taken out of stock from the Packard factory and given no special preparation, have just finished a 2400-mile trip which offers an outstanding example of the high degree of reliability reached in the modern motor car. Although new cars which had had only a few miles of driving on a tour of Detroit, they were driven at maximum speed for the first 200 miles of the trip and at maximum or nearly top speed for all the rest of the 2,400 miles without injury to any one of the six and without causing any need for mechanical adjustments. The cars were used for a tour of Michigan by a group of high school students from different cities of the state. The Packard company in providing the automobiles said it welcomed the opportunity for making so severe a test of its machines as the schedule for the tour promised. Packard engineers and service men believe the longest life will be given a car if the greatest care is used in driving it over the first few hundred miles. They say their car should be driven at 30 or 35 miles an hour with an occasional burst of faster speed. They were confident, however, they said, that any Packard cars could be, if necessary, driven at high sustained speed from the start.

News of another achievement of Studebaker's Erskine Six in the hands of women drivers has just been received by The Studebaker Corporation of America, from Cape Town, South Africa, where two Cape Town women, Mrs. Doris Hume and Mrs. A. M. Smythe, recently completed a 4,376 mile trip over trying roads in an Erskine Six without male assistance.

An avalanche of mobile horsepower 78 times greater than power generated at Niagara Falls, has been turned out by Dodge Brothers Corporation since the first car rolled off the assembly line, November 14, 1914, according to figures compiled by engineers of the company. In nearly 14 years of the company's automotive building, approximately 2,149,000 cars have been turned out. The total rated horsepower of Niagara Falls power plants is estimated at 1,085,000 due to treaty limtiations, while all cars built by Dodge Brothers represent a total potential horsepower rating of approximately 85,000,000. Engineers estimate that if all Dodge cars could be harnessed in a single unit, it would be possible for them to do as much work in one day as the Niagara Falls power plants can do in 2¼ months.

Pierce-Arrow price reductions, announced only two weeks ago, are resulting in a record summer volume of business, according to an announcement made by the company's officials. July sales exceeded greatly those of a year ago and likewise were substantially in advance of June, normally a better selling month. The price reductions were made in accord with the company's announced policy of increasing its sales volume by a material expansion of its market, there being no change in materials, refinement of detail or method of building. Every body type of Pierce-Arrow's new series of car was included in the scale of reductions.

New Art Exhibit At Woodstock

The third general exhibition of paintings, sculpture and craft work has opened at the Gallery of the Woodstock Art Association. This third show is the high mark of the summer, older and wider-known artists being represented in the exhibit. The gallery is open Saturday morning and afternoon—other days in the afternoon. Visitors to Woodstock for the Saturday morning Market Fair will find it convenient to visit the gallery also.

The Value of a Name.

Everybody knows the value of a good name to an individual, but not many stop to think of the enormous value of a trademark. It has been only a few years since Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company began to advertise Chesterfield cigarettes; but from the very beginning the brand has grown—year after year, month after month—until the sales have reached an enormous volume and the name Chesterfield is worth millions and millions of dollars and is known in every nook and corner of the country.

Earliest Serial Story

The first story in the English language ever to appear as a serial was Daniel Defoe's masterpiece, "Robinson Crusoe." Following its publication in book form it ran serially in the London Post, issued three times weekly, from October 7, 1719, to October 17, 1720. At the end of each installment appeared also for the first time that stimulating tag: "To Be Continued in Our Next."—Exchange.

Tagging Major League Bases

By Herbert W. Barker,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

John McGraw's teams in the National League long have been noted for their bulldog courage, and the Giants of 1928 are no exception.

Some critics have rated all four western clubs as potentially stronger than the clan McGraw. The standing, however, shows the Giants in second place and still within striking distance of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards, it is true, hold a commanding lead of six and a half games, but notwithstanding the great ball they've played for two months they have been unable to shake off the Giants completely. Most of the Cardinals' margin over New York is on the winning side of the ledger. In losing games, the Giants trail only by four contests.

Many have been the games McGraw's players have pulled out of the fire this season and yesterday they did the same thing 7 to 5 at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds by 4 to 1 in the eighth inning the Giants took a one-run lead by scoring four runs, Frank Hogan's homer being the decisive blow. Nothing daunted the Reds tied up in the first half of the ninth only to see Freddie Lindstrom crash out another four base blow with two out and Ott on base in the last half. Hughie Critz, Reds' second sacker, hit safely in his twenty-first consecutive game, a league record for the season.

The Chicago Cubs moved into third place by taking over the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8 to 5, a seven-run rally in the third settling the issue. The Robins kept pecking away at three Cub pitchers, but it did no good. Del Bissonette cracked out two triples, two singles and drew a pass in five trips to the plate.

The Pittsburgh Pirates tightened their hold on fifth place by again crushing the Phillies, this time, 14 to 5. Pie Traynor got three singles and a pair of doubles in six chances.

The Cards lost no ground, for Sherdel held the MBoston Braves to five hits and beat them, 5 to 1. A temperature of 95 degrees was too much for Virgil Barnes, Braves' pitcher, and he retired from the game in a state of semi-collapse after five innings. Twenty-three balls were caught by the outfielders, George Harper snaring seven.

The American League race remained in status quo as the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics both lost.

The Yanks were shut out by Sam Gray and the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 0. Gray held the champions to five hits.

The Cleveland Indians snapped the A's winning streak of ten straight games by pounding Rube Walberg into submission, 9 to 5. The Athletics used 18 players, including three pitchers. Cleveland got 11 hits.

Billings and Van Gilder walked five men in succession in the seventh inning at Detroit and the Tigers bowed to the Washington Senators, 9 to 3. Billings walked three men after two were out in the seventh and then handed over the burden to Van Gilder who walked two more and allowed three singles before the side was retired. Six runs was the net result for the Senators.

The Chicago White Sox six-game winning streak foundered on the rock of Ed Morris's pitching prowess, the Boston Red Sox scoring a 3 to 1 triumph over Al Thomas.

RAIN WASHED OUT THE P. O.-CITY-ARTISTIC GAME

The heavy storm stopped the P. O.-City-Artistic game in the first inning Friday evening at the Athletic Field. The P. O.-City were at bat and had a man on base when the heavy downpour came. Gilday was pitching for the Artistics. The game will be played at a later date.

Local Men Get Fighters' Trunks

Edward Cashin of this city and William Pintard of Rifton, both interested in boxing, are probably two of the happiest enthusiasts of the ring game in this locality. Cashin is the possessor of Tom Heeney's fighting trunks, worn by the New Zealander when he met Gene Tunney from whom he recently failed to wrest the world's heavyweight championship. Pintard is also very happy for he has Tunney's trunks.

The fact that Eddie Cashin is familiar with many of the popular boxers is the reason for the acquisition. Mr. Cashin was at one time very active in boxing circles and served as referee in many a bout.

Finland Adds Another Victory

Amsterdam, Aug. 4 (AP).—Finland added another to its list of Olympic running victories today when Toivo Loukola won the 3,000 meter steeplechase championship with Paavo Nurmi second. Willie Ritola split.

The victory marked Finland's fourth championship of the Olympic games thus far, all being in running events. The others were the 10,000 meter title won by Nurmi; Harry Larva's 1,500 meter victory and Ritola's win at 5,000 meters.

Doplte defeat of their two favorites, Nurmi and Ritola, Finland placed one, two, three. Loukola defeated Paavo by 50 yards, with Ore Anderson third. The two Americans, W. O. Spencer and Mel Dalton, badly beaten, brought up the rear in seventh and eighth positions.

Hornsby Leads National Hitters

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby of Boston remains more or less safely in the vanguard of the batters in the National League, and Larry Benton of New York is supreme among the pitchers, but almost all of the other individual honors fall upon the able shoulders of various members of the Cardinal array. The St. Louis monopoly in other departments is broken only in home runs, where Hack Wilson of Chicago leads with 24, and in stolen bases, where Wilson's teammate, Kiki Cuyler, sets the pace with 19.

Hornsby's average, according to figures issued today and including games of last Wednesday, is .355 for 87 contests. Paul Waner, the Poisonous Pirate, remains a menace to the Boston manager but seems unable to narrow the gap further after having approached to within sixteen points of the former champion. The elder Waner shows an even .370 for 95 games.

Other leading batsmen: Grantham, Pittsburgh, .360; Sisler, Boston, .354; Bottomley, St. Louis, .351; Lindstrom, New York, .349; Douthit, St. Louis, .346; Herman, Brooklyn, .342; Roettger, St. Louis, .341, and Hafey, St. Louis, .334.

Although Wilson manages to remain in the lead in home run hitting, Sunny Jim Bottomley of St. Louis crowds him with 23 and stands ready to rush to the top at any sign of faltering on the part of the Chicago slugger. Bottomley also tops the league in runs scored with 88; in doubles, with 25; in triples, with 13, and in runs batted in, with 92.

Taylor Douthit has 146 hits, the greatest total of any National League player. At this point Chicago steps in for the few honors the Cardinals have overlooked.

Larry Benton added another pitching victory to his string to make his total for the season seventeen against only four defeats.

The Sorrel top also has the amazing record of having finished twenty of his twenty-two starts. He has been removed from the box, as starter or relief man, only three times.

Second to Benton stands the familiar figure of Red Lucas of Cincinnati. Red has won ten and lost three. Flint Rhem of St. Louis is third with nine and three. Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh leads in shutouts with four.

The Pirates continued to set the pace in club batting, this time with .305, but the Cardinals remain tough opponents.

The St. Louis entry now is second with .302. Then comes a big gap down to the third place Giants, who have .284.

In spite of their record drop of 128 double plays, the Cincinnati Reds are three points out of the lead in team fielding, where points are hard-earned and slowly acquired. The Cubs lead with .975, against .974 for the second place Cardinals. The Reds are next with their .972.

Swimming Meet At Poughkeepsie

More than a score of crack swimmers have signed up and are entered in the Hudson Valley championships to be settled in the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie Saturday afternoon, August 18.

The entry list will not be closed until Friday afternoon, August 17, and swimmers from Boston, Newburgh, Peekskill, Hudson and Kingston still have a chance to enter the meet which has been sanctioned by the A. A. U.

Three races are on the program. The first will be for boys under 18 while the second will be for women. The third and final race of the day will be for the men. All races will be started at Highland and finished at the Poughkeepsie Yacht Club.

Alton Nolan will be the defending champion in the mile evet. The 13-year-old marvel. Ester Losee, will defend her women's title. The boys' division has no leader as Fritz Gilbert, winner last year, will be competing in the men's division.

Following the events in the Hudson the meet will be continued that evening at the Woodcliff Pleasure Park where a diving contest will be held. Entry blanks may be obtained at The Sunday Courier, Poughkeepsie, or at the American Legion home in Poughkeepsie.

HEENEY WILL BRING HOME BRIDE, NOT CROWN

Spring Valley, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—Tom Heeney, the solid man from down under, will take a bride instead of the heavyweight crown back home to New Zealand.

Heeney, who recently was defeated by Gene Tunney in a match for the heavyweight title, was married Thursday night to Miss Marion Estelle Dunn of Spring Valley. Miss Dunn gave her age as 24.

Attended by his brother, Patrick, and a man named "Irwin," whose first name was not learned, the couple drove to Ladentown late Thursday evening where they were married by Justice of the Peace Margulis. They left immediately for an unannounced destination.

Heeney and his bride met several months ago while the rugged Anzac was battling his way through the ranks of the so-called logical contenders in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament. Several times during his training period for the championship fight he visited Miss Dunn here.

Heeney received $100,000 for his fight with Tunney and since coming to this country a year ago, penniless, has shared in several other large purses.

Sunday Schedule Of Local Clubs

Provided weather conditions are favorable Sunday a number of Kingston baseball clubs will participate in what promise to be fast contests, as follows:

The Pan-Ams will meet the West New York Red Sox, conquerors of the former Central Baseball Club, 7-4, at Pan-Am Park on the Saugerties road Sunday afternoon. It is expected that a large gathering of fans will witness this tilt, which promises to be the most interesting played at the diamond this season. Carpenter, ace of the oilmen's hurling staff, will start the contest for the Pan-Ams. Naimo or Smith will do the pitching for the Red Sox. Both teams will use their regular lineups.

The Kingston All-Stars will invade Block Park, home grounds of the Rondout A. C., and endeavor to take a tilt, which the Rondouts have been figuring on copping. The Rondouts have been practicing hard to get in tip-top form for the Sunday afternoon game, which will likely be viewed by the largest number of spectators to gather at Block Park this season. Randolph Winston will be on the mound for the All-Stars. Phil "Waco" Peters will toss them over for the Rondouts. Hank Smedes will catch for the former aggregation, while Dulin will receive for the Seventh Ward nine. Rain caused the postponement of the Rondout A. C. vs. Central Hudson game at Block Park Friday evening.

The Red Sox and the Clermonts will mix it at Hasbrouck Park Sunday afternoon for the benefit of the American Legion Drum Corps traveling fund. The members of both teams, who donated their services for the game, are willing to put forth their best efforts to please a large gathering of fans. Jack Dunn or Ken Best will pitch for the Clermonts with Houghtaling behind the plate. McDaniels and Carpino will form the battery for the Red Sox. The entire proceeds of the game will be turned over to the fund being raised to send the Legion Drum Corps to the national convention at San Antonio, Texas, in October.

The Colonials will travel to Ellenville Sunday afternoon, where they will meet the team of that community for the second time this season. On the last occasion of battle between the two teams the Ellenville Orioles took the bacon. It is the aim of the Kingston club to make every effort to even matters Sunday.

The Blue Sox will rest on Sunday. They have no game scheduled for the first in several weeks.

Somber Hues Soothe

Black bedclothes and pillows in a black bed, within a room of the same dusky shade, is the unusual cure for insomnia suggested by recent experiments of Dr. Mario Ponzo, of the hospital for the insane at Alessandria, Italy. In such a room some of the most violent patients became calm and soon fell into a deep, natural sleep.—Popular Science Monthly.

Yankee Club Hitting Hard

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Yankees may lose baseball games but "murder's row" seems to get tougher and tougher.

While Miller Huggins and his men suffered the worst week of their season last week, their bats were more active than ever, unofficial averages for the week up to and including last Wednesday's games reveal.

As they dropped four of their eight games, the Yanks averaged .321 as a team in batting, averaged almost eight runs a game and their hits totaled 147 bases. On defense, they committed an error each game on the average and executed nine double plays—the latter a record that most any team in the circuit would be glad to have. Babe Ruth hiked his batting average up 17 points, while most of his mates did almost as well.

But it was a Senator, "Goose" Goslin, who topped the individual batting race. The "Goose" increased his average from .392 to .399 during the week and was 26 percentage points ahead of his nearest rival, Al Simmons of Philadelphia, whose average declined five points.

The ten leaders and their averages: Goslin, Washington, .399; Simmons, Philadelphia, .373; Gehrig, New York, .359; Lazzeri, New York, .358; Foxx, Philadelphia, .354; Manush, St. Louis, .351; E. Miller, Philadelphia, .341; Bettencourt, St. Louis, .304; Ruth, New York, .337; and Myer, Boston, .333.

Waite Hoyt of the Yankees held his lead in the race for pitching honors by winning another game during the week. Hoyt now has won 13 and lost 2. Jack Quinn of the Athletics, was second with 13 victories and four defeats. George Pipgras, who held the lead for several weeks, dropped farther from the top, being nicked for two defeats in two starts last week.

Whilee New York increased its batting by two points to hold the lead in that department, Cleveland increased its hitting mark eight points and was only five points from second place, which is held by Philadelphia. Boston took the lead in team fielding during the week from St. Louis with .974.

Other leaders: Double plays, Cleveland, 128; most runs, New York, 620; fewest opponents' runs, Philadelphia, 420; stolen bases, Mostil, Chicago, 18; and most individual runs scored, Ruth, New York, 113.

Gasco Protest Was Thrown Out

At a meeting of the Board of Managers and the officers of the Industrial League Friday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms the Gasco protest on the game won Monday evening by the U. & D.-Schillings from the Gascos was thrown out. Umpire Pete Jordan was at the meeting to state his reason for allowing the run to score that gave the U. & D.-Schillings the game. The Gascos protested the decision on the grounds that a play could not be made on the runner as the fans started to fill the field when the runner was trying to score.

Mr. Jordan read Rule 63 which covered the situation and also cited a similar case which occurred in a game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs when Fred Merkle pulled his famous boner.

To prevent a repetition of what occurred in the first elimination game it was decided to use two umpires in all series games, with Mr. Jordan acting as the chief umpire.

It was also decided at the meeting that at no time can a runner have another player playing in the same game substitute for him unless he is incapacitated. Then the opposing captain has to decide who should be the substitute.

GOVERNOR UNABLE TO BATHE AT CONEY ISLAND.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—There was a time when Governor Alfred E. Smith could bathe at Coney Island with the rest of the city's sweltering millions, but that day is no more.

The governor and a party of friends sought to take a dip in the surf at the famous resort yesterday, but before he could get knee-deep in the water he found himself the center of a frenzied mob each member of which clamored to shake his hand, kiss a baby or get a close view of the Democratic presidential nominee.

Fearing children would be trampled upon or drowned in the crush, the governor finally called upon his aide, Sergeant Bill Roy, to relieve the situation. Roy commandeered a lifeboat, the governor was hoisted in and the boat pushed off through the human sea to the exclusive Seagate colony.

There the governor dived in and a few minutes later went to the home of George V. McLaughlin, former New York police commissioner, where he stayed until they brought his clothes from the bathhouse.

"That," said the governor, "was the hardest swim I ever had."

While en route to the island the governor had a narrow escape when the fire department automobile, in which he made the trip, almost was run into by two huge trucks as it was proceeding at a high rate of speed up Broadway.

A second car occupied by newspaper men also narrowly escaped. The near accident resulted in Smith campaign managers taking measures to have a motorcycle police escort for the governor hereafter.

Aqueducts

An aqueduct is a water conduit, particularly one for supplying a community from a distance. Aqueducts are ordinarily of masonry, arched over and sometimes forming a foot or general transit bridge.

Fight Fans Want Konchina-Coffey

A number of the boxing fans who saw Frankie "Kayo" Konchina beat Charlie Eck, Syracuse buzz-saw, at Woodcliff Park, Poughkeepsie, on Thursday evening, crave a meeting between the victor and Vince Coffey, one of the best boxers this city ever turned out, who has been retired from the squared circle for some time.

Of course Coffee is now about 25 pounds too heavy for Konchina, who tips the scales at 155 in fighting form, but according to men that know Vince he could take off much of the excess weight if necessary. It is the contention of a number here interested in the ring game that a meeting between the two in this vicinity would draw one of the largest gates ever attracted hereabouts.

Whether Vince Coffey would step out of retirement for a bout with Konchina, one of the most popular scrappers in this section, is not known. He has been visiting Doc Studer's gym of late to work off extra poundage.

Leo Smith and Eddie Kelly, both of Kingston, who are promoting bouts at Woodcliff Park, plan on getting some big attractions there this summer. Negotiations will be made with Jack Britton and several other big-timers. The Coffey followers hope Vince might be among those to appear at the big stadium and wish that his opponent will be Frankie Konchina.

OBJECT TO BRINGING BRITISH WORKERS INTO CANADA

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 4 (AP).—Objection to the bringing to Canada for the grain harvest of 10,000 British workers has been voiced by the Allied Trades and Labor Council.

Reasons advanced against the proposed emigration were that the emigrants would not find sufficient winter employment in this country and that many of them would eventually find themselves in Canada without money or means of support.

COOLIDGE GETS PICTURE OF GREAT-GRANDPARENTS

Superior, Wis., Aug. 4 (AP).—An old double daguerreotype of his great grandparents, the first he has ever seen, has reached President Coolidge through Clay Perry, writer and distant relative of the chief executive.

The daguerreotype was old and faded but still showed clearly the features of Mr. Coolidge's ancestors. Mr. Perry came into possession of the portrait through his mother, the late Mrs. Lillian Coudre Perry of Milwaukee, who was a cousin of President Coolidge's father.

After the presentation, Mr. Perry said the chief executive had not previously known that pictures of any kind of his great grandparents existed.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Major speculative activity in today's brief session of the stock market was again on the up side. Gains of 1 to 4 points were spread over a wide list, with the independent motor, chemical, food and mercantile shares giving the best demonstrations of group strength.

Uneasiness over the credit situation was reflected in the reduced volume of trading, although the market did not appear to be disturbed by the new clearing house regulations intended to curtail the volume of loans on security collateral.

Chrysler again was the leader in the motor group, rising more than 2 points to 86¾ on top of a 6 point gain yesterday. Pierce Arrow preferred advanced 4 points. Timken Roller Bearing, Packard and American Bosch Magneto climbed 2 to 3 points.

Demand also was noticed for Corn Products, National Distillers, Union Carbide, Mathieson Alkali, Kroger Stores and Montgomery Ward.

Atlantic Refining broke 5¾ points on profit-taking following the announcement of a recapitalization plan, but made up part of its loss before the close. Frank G. Shattuck also yielded to realizing sales.

The closing was strong.

Total sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

Early Flyers

Icarus was the son of Daedalus, a mythical sculptor of early Greece. The father and son were imprisoned, and to escape, invented wings and attached them with wax. They flew out of their prison easily enough, but Icarus flew too near the sun and the heat melted the wax, his wings came off, and he fell into the sea.

Republicans Report $98,379

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Republican National Committee today reported contributions of $98,379, up to and including July 31, and expenditures of $46,317.04.

J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the committee, made public the statement in accordance with the pledge made by the Republican party in the platform adopted at Kansas City. Copies of the report were sent to the senate and house campaign funds investigating committee.

The largest contributions recorded were for $10,000, three persons giving that amount, including Howard Heinz, of Pittsburgh, Secretary Dwight F. Davis of the war department and Arthur Whitney of Mendham, N. J.

There were two contributions of $7,500 each, O. P. Van Sweringen and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland.

Society Notes

Villard-Tomkins.

Miss Katharine Tomkins, daughter of Mrs. Calvin Tomkins, of 270 Park avenue, New York city, and Tomkins Cove, N. Y., was married late Thursday afternoon to Vincent Serrano Villard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison Villard, of 129 East Sixty-ninth street, New York city. The ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Patterson, took place in the garden of the country home of the bride's mother at Tomkins Cove. Only members of the two families and a few close friends were present at the wedding and the reception which followed. The bride had Mrs. Frederic Conger as matron of honor. The bride attended the Spence School and the Ethel Walker School at Simsbury, Conn., and was graduated from Bryn Mawr in the class of '26. She is a member of the Junior League. Mr. Villard is a great grandson of the late William Lloyd Garrison and a grandson of Mrs. Henry Villard and the late Mr. Villard. His uncle, Vincent Serrano, for whom he was named, has long been associated with the stage of New York. Mr. Villard attended the Browning School and was graduated from Williams College in the class '26. The floral decorations were in charge of Valentin Burgevin, Inc., of this city, two large truck loads of flowers, palms and other decorative plants being taken from the conservatories here.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

"Drake's Folly" is the Socony-land Sketch, Tuesday night, when a cast of eleven will depict the beginning of the petroleum industry, leading up to the first oil well of August, 1859, sixty-nine years ago.

When Byrd's expedition leaves New York to explore the ice plateau of the Antarctic it will be equipped as thoroughly as a modern army taking the field for a strenuous campaign. "For expeditions like wars," says the conqueror of the North Pole and the Atlantic "are won by preparation." A specially built ice-proof steamship has been provided. Not just one plane will be depended on, for there will be three tuned and tested ones, chosen from thousands. It is a gala day for an airplane manufacturer to have one of his models chosen for the polar flights. And the oil industry and automobile world are today discussing the latest announcement—the choice of the New Veedol motor oil for the planes that will explore the end of the world. For this will be one of the greatest tests ever made of a motor lubricant. When men are fighting 100 mile gales, 12,000 feet above the jagged ice peaks in cold that drives the mercury down to 70 degrees below freezing—there must be no failure. And motor lubricants must do their part. The new Veedol will guard the motors of the two smaller planes when they plant caches of food and fuel in remote spots of the polar plateau. And when the big plane takes off from the Bay of Whales for the final 2,000 mile dash the motors will be lubricated in the coldest of all areas by the tough heavy-bodied Veedol.

Chaucer Mindful of Opportunity in Life

Chaucer was appointed comptroller of customs in 1374.

The post of comptroller of the customs and subsidy of wools, hides and woolfells and the petty customs of wine—one of the fattest jobs in the city of London—was not the only prize which Chaucer managed to gather during a career of diplomacy; for the writing of the "Canterbury Tales" was only a spare-time hobby.

Chaucer, who began as a royal page, had undertaken many embassies. One, in Italy, had been so successful as to earn him a grant of a pitcher of wine a day, to be supplied by the king's butler. Two years later he received £16 13s 4d for some secret service work. A mission to Flanders and an embassy to the king of France brought him nearly £80; no small sum in those days.

It was, no doubt, these journeyings abroad that enabled him to dip into all the treasure houses of Christendom for his stories. But his merry manner of telling them—that we owe to his genius alone; or, perhaps, a little to the county which he made his home; for if a man can't be merry and poetic in springtime and in Kent, when and where can he be?—From the Continental Edition of the London Daily Mail.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Aug. 4.—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets).—Upstate New York green peas were in moderate receipt today. Price changes were few and small in a steady market. The best peas from Madison county brought $2 @ $2.50, occasionally as high as $2.75 per bushel basket. Unattractive and small peas sold at $1 @ $1.75. Colorado peas packed in crates holding about 40 pounds worked out at $4.50 @ $5.

Arrivals of Catskill Mountain cauliflower were more liberal. Fancy well-headed stock continues scarce. Sales on the best cauliflower were from $4 @ $5.50 per crate. Ordinary to common ranged from $1.50 @ $3.50.

Hudson valley yellow transparent apples were in short supply. Good quality large fruit met fair outlet, but ordinary and small received scant attention. Bushel baskets peddled out at 75c @ $1.75.

Western New York cut carrots were in light receipt. Prices nevertheless tended lower on less active demand. Wholesale business on muckland carrots in similar sized packages brought from $1.50 to $3.25, depending upon quality and size.

Receipts of Big Boston lettuce were moderate from Oswego county but limited from all other sections of the state. Demand was fairly good on fine quality well-headed lettuce, but slow on offgrade. Very finest commanded as high as $3.25 per crate while the poorest changed hands at 75c. Most sales were at $1.50 @ $2.50.

Offerings of sour cherries were again limited from the Hudson valley. Good quality large fruit was in demand and values were unchanged in a steady firm market. Four quart baskets of red sours peddled out at 85c-$1. Black sours realized 85c-$1.10.

Supplies of Romaine were light from all parts of the state. Fancy large jobbed out at $1.50-$2 per crate. Ordinary and small sold at 75c-$1.25.

The Rev. Frank E. Ray died at his home in Modena, Friday morning, August 3, aged 52 years. He had been pastor of the M. E. Church of that community since April. The deceased was a member of Ellenville Lodge, No. 352, F. & A. M. Besides his wife, two sons survive, Harold and Frank, both at home. Funeral from the late home, Monday at 1 p. m., daylight saving time. Interment in the Rock Ridge Cemetery, Monticello.

Champion Daylight-Saver

The world's champion migrant is the Arctic tern, its summer and winter homes being 11,000 miles apart. These birds arrive in the Far North about June 15 and leave at the end of August, after the nesting period is over. A few months later they arrive at the edge of the Antarctic and remain there during the 24-hour daylight season. Thus the tern enjoys more hours of daylight and sunlight than any other creature.

High Falls Store Was Burglarized

Some time Friday night the store of Walter Davenport at High Falls was burglarized and merchandise to the value of $600 stolen. Among the articles stolen were automobile tires, tubes and cans of oil. The State Troopers were notified of the burglary and are conducting an investigation.

INJURED WHEN HURLED FROM POLE AT PLATTEKILL.

Harry Ritch, employe of E. W. Warner, Saugerties contractor, is in the City of Kingston Hospital, suffering a possible fracture of the skull and dislocated right shoulder, received Friday when he was hurled from an electric light pole near Plattekill. The pole is said to have broken off, causing the man to be thrown to the ground. Ritch was removed to Kingston Hospital by the L. DuBois ambulance service of New Paltz.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY

North and Middle Atlantic States: Showers at the beginning of the week and again about Friday; otherwise mostly fair weather. Moderate temperatures over the extreme north and moderately warm over central and south portions most of the week.

Knights Carried Weight

The weight of the armor worn in the Middle ages varied greatly. In the Metropolitan Museum of Art at New York there is a complete suit of chain mail including head, body and leg defenses, which weighs 35 pounds. Many complete suits of armor worn in the Thirteenth century weighed as much as 70 and 80 pounds.

Bookkeepers Die Earliest

The average life span of Americans is forty-seven years. Doctor Dodson of the American Medical association tells us. By occupations, bookkeepers are the shortest lived, their lifetime averaging 36.5 years. Doctors live to an average of sixty-two, longest of all callings as it ought to be.—Capper's Weekly.

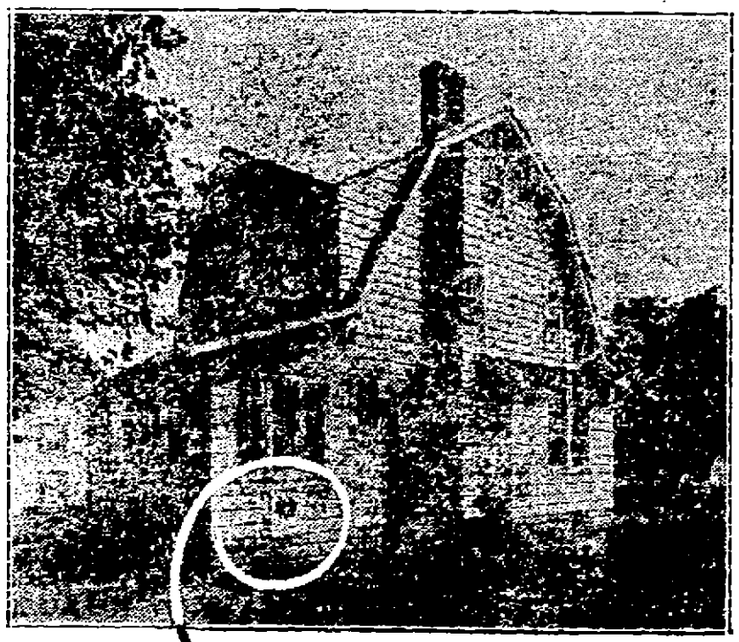
THIS HOUSE BEAUTIFUL IS ELECTRICAL



RED SEAL
ELECTRIC HOME

This charming house at 56 Johnston avenue, built by Frank Reis, well known builder of Kingston, is an outstanding example of a modern electric home. Containing seven rooms, sun parlor and tiled bath room, the finest materials have gone into its construction. That it has been built for convenience is shown by the fact that it is a Red Seal home—wired for the fullest use of electricity.

Every day, builders are realizing that Red Seal homes have a greater sale on the market—that the adequate wiring plan is demanded by home buyers today. Plenty of convenience outlets, assured by the Red Seal layout, give service in an electrical home. The use of labor-saving appliances and the glow of many lamps, as the present mode requires, are possible.

Da Vinci Had Vision of Conquest of Air

Artists and writers are commonly supposed to be impractical people, and yet we were reminded only the other day by a local colonist that Leonardo da Vinci wrote the first treatise on mechanical flight and demonstrated the principles of the parachute. Da Vinci was a painter, sculptor and military and civil engineer. He was also an architect, and drew the first technical design for imitation wings. In his device the flyer was to occupy a horizontal position and work the flying strokes with his arms and feet by means of ropes passing over pulleys. The wings resembled those of the bat, and consisted of several parts which flapped together in the upper stroke and spread out on the down stroke. A tail surface was provided between the parted legs.

Da Vinci planned this some time between 1487 and 1499.—Washington Star.

21.—Grant's First Nomination

IN 1868 the Republicans had nominated and elected a Democrat as vice-president, in the hope of securing Northern Democratic support for the winning of the Civil war.

Four years later, with that Democrat in the White House as the result of Lincoln's assassination, the senate, after a long quarrel between Johnson and the radical Republican faction in congress over southern reconstruction problems, was going through an impeachment trial to get rid of Johnson as Chief Executive.

And simultaneously at Crosby's Opera house in Chicago, the Republican convention—that called itself the National Union Republican convention—was busy nominating another Democrat for President.

Ulysses S. Grant's political leanings and affiliations always had been Democratic. The one vote for President he had previously cast in his life had been for a Democrat, Buchanan, in 1856. And had he lived long enough in Illinois to acquire residence there, he would have voted for Stephen A. Douglas rather than for Lincoln in 1860.

But his brilliant military leadership in the Civil war had made Grant a prize to be sought by both parties. The course he was called upon to play in political events in Washington following the war soon allied him with the Republicans. He was drawn into the quarrel between Johnson and congress, against the President. Thenceforward the general was an ardent advocate of Johnson's impeachment, and any Democratic leanings he may have had vanished.

Overwhelming Republican demand for his nomination quickly materialized in numerous local and district meetings and conventions. So strong was the Grant sentiment by May 20, the day on which the party convention assembled at Chicago, that that gathering was virtually only a ratification meeting which was able to finish its transactions in the unusually short time of two days.

Gen. John A. Logan of Illinois, second national commander of the G. A. R., made the speech nominating Grant "in the name of the loyal citizens, soldiers and sailors of this great republic of the United States of America; in the name of loyalty, of liberty, of humanity, of justice; in the name of the National Union Republican party."

The vote for Grant was declared unanimous amid long-continued cheering, which was intensified by the lowering back of the stage of a large full-length portrait of the general, bearing the legend, "Match him." Then while cheers and songs resounded, a white dove was released to fly about the hall.

That symbolism was to find further expression in the culminating sentence of Grant's formal acceptance of the nomination. "Let us have peace," he said. The sentiment became a Republican keynote for the campaign.

In the meantime, as both parties had been eager to capture Grant as their standard-bearer, another public man of national prominence fished, and fished in vain, for the nomination of both parties. He was Salmon P. Chase of Ohio, whose keen desire for the highest office became almost a mania. Or as Godkin, the New York journalist put it, "What in other men is a craving for the Presidency seems to have been in Chase a lust for it."

Even while he was serving as Lincoln's secretary of the treasury, Chase was scheming and pulling the wires for the Republican nomination in 1864. Despite what less magnanimous Presidents might have considered an evidence of political disloyalty, Lincoln not only retained Chase in the cabinet as long as he would stay, but later rewarded him with appointment to be chief justice of the United States Supreme court, upon the death of Chief Justice Taney, whose famous Dred Scott decision had had so much to do with bringing the slavery controversy to a climax.

As chief justice, occupying the position of all deemed most removed from partisan politics, Chase continued his nomination fishing. In both parties Republicans convinced him early in 1868 that, as a Presidential possibility, they would have none of him. Then, even at the time he was presiding at the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson, he conducted private maneuvers, through personal correspondence, for the Democratic nomination.

When his aspirations for the Democratic indorsement were no longer a secret, many Democrats sized up his availability favorably at first. He was ready to yield most Republican principles with which he had been identified save one—he stood firm for universal negro suffrage. When this exception became clear, his aspirations no longer were seriously considered. The uncompromising position of the chief justice on that one issue probably cost him the Democratic nomination to oppose Grant.

So that difficult campaign role went to another man, who not only did not want to undertake it but at first vigorously refused to do so, though he was later persuaded to make a run against the idol of the hour in a contest that was almost sure to prove hopeless.

Wind Storm Insurance

The damage is done

The windstorm has done its damage and now we are hearing the old questions about windstorm insurance; asking what it is, what it can do and how much it costs. The time to find out is NOW—before the next storm. Remember that a policy carried year after year is an investment in security. When allowed to lapse and renewed "now and then" it is little different from gambling. The rates are reasonable; the protection sure.

STONE HAS EVEN CHANCE OF RETURNING TO STAGE

New London, Conn., Aug. 4 (AP) —Fred Stone today has only an even chance of returning to the stage whose boards he had trod for a quarter of a century as a vaudeville and musical comedy star.

Both legs, his right thigh, left wrist and lower jaw fractured and with many other dislocations and bruises he was "doing nicely" in Lawrence and Memorial Hospital, where he was taken after the airplane in which he was making a solo flight crashed near Trumbull flying field yesterday.

The doctors said only time would tell whether his broken bones would knit sufficiently for him to resume his antics on the stage. They said it might be two months and it might be a year before he could walk again. He is 55.

Hard to Determine Age

There is no sure way in which to determine the age of a hard-shell turtle. In most instances the plates are examined closely with a microscope, and on these plates there can be noticed scale expansion. This scale expands as the turtle grows, leaving a ring of growth. These rings are counted the same as those of a tree.
